House Trailer Smashed

Victim Of Bridge Barrier

This scattered heap of wreckage was all that remained of a small house trailer that smashed into the height barrier on the Ohio end of the Chester Bridge this morning as it was being towed by an auto from Indiana to Pennsylvania.

Robert G. Bell, 24, of Bristol, Ind., was driving the auto to which the trailer was attached. He was unhurt by the sudden stop as the trailer smashed into the I-beam. His wife and small son were hurled against the auto's dashboard and windshield, but escaped serious injury. The mishap was timed shortly before 7.

Bell said the trailer was valued at about $2,000. He was towing it to a Pennsylvania dealer. Two warning lights on the bridge barrier were damaged in the collision.

The wreckage of the trailer was removed by a tow truck. It was the latest in a long series of small trailers and camper vehicles to be damaged or demolished in striking the 7-foot height barrier erected by the Ohio Highway Department.

Bell told police he saw the sign warning of the low clearance as he rounded the curve onto the bridge approach, but did not realize the barrier was a menace to the trailer.

Czechs, East Germans Agree On Economic Ties

KARLOVY VARY, Czechoslovakia (AP) — East German Communist party chief Walter Ulbricht's meeting with Czechoslovakia's liberal leaders ended Monday night with an expression of broad agreement on economic cooperation but little other indication of rapprochement.

Crowds at the west Bohemian spa of Karlovy Vary neither booed nor cheered East Germany's Stalinist leader but showed him an enthusiastic display of support for their Communisty party chief, Alexander Dubcek, who started the nation's liberalization drive. Ulbricht was one of the leaders of the attempt within the Soviet bloc to reverse Czechoslovakia's new course, and he was booed at the Bratislava conference which conceded victory to the Czechoslovaks.

A communique after the six-hour meeting Monday said the East German and Czechoslovak delegations "agreed on measures for the deepening of mutual economic relations and the coordination of long-term plans, the furtherment of cooperation and the specialization of production and also scientific and technical cooperation."

The two nations are the most industrialized of the smaller Communist nations and have similar economic interests. Both have big trade surpluses with the Soviet Union and want to have some system of convertibility set up so they can use the surpluses.

Relations with West Germany was another major topic of discussion, and the communique said Dubcek and his associates welcomed Ulbricht's proposal last week to exchange envoys and open negotiations with the Bonn government.

The communique also contained the standard Communist pledge to oppose "activation of revenge-seeking, militarism and neo-Nazism in West Germany." But there was nothing to indicate that the Czechoslovaks had abandoned their interest in relations with West Germany, particularly in the field of trade and credits.

The communique indicated some disagreement by mentioning "an atmosphere of frankness" and said each side informed the other "on the policies of their parties in their countries." Neither side had been expected to make any change in the other's basic policy, and apparently neither did.

Girl's Body Found, Mother Shot

Florida Police Hunt Man Who Phoned Of Murder

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Warning their quarry may kill again, police today hunted for a man who directed them by telephone to the body of a young girl and her wounded mother and then begged: "Please catch me. Please."

Acting on telephone calls from a man who said, "I've murdered three people," police Monday located the body of an 11-year-old girl and her critically wounded mother.

The caller told police if they wanted to find his victims bodies to "go down to the airport and then there's one in the water and there's one on a side street."

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy A. Clark, 42, of Clarkston, Ga., was found slumped over the wheel of a car parked at the Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport. She was bleeding from five bullet wounds in her head and neck. She was reported in critical condition.

Motorists discovered the body of her daughter, Marilyn, at the edge of a side road four miles away in Hollywood. The girl, clad in the bottom half of a two-piece bathing suit and a cotton blouse, had been shot twice in the head.

A search of waterways for a third victim continued today.

"He wasn't lying about the first two, so why should he lie about the third?" a detective said.

After listening to tape recordings of the caller's conversations, Fort Lauderdale police issued a public warning that the man was "mentally disturbed" and "may attempt to take more lives."

Caller: Murder.
Rice: A murder?
Caller: I just killed three people.

New Stage Speculated In Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — Le Duc Tho, a key figure in North Vietnam's peace talk delegation, came back to Paris today after a six-week trip to Hanoi. U.S. officials speculated that his return could open an important new stage in the talks.

On his way back, Tho conferred Monday with Soviet officials in Moscow. He said his trip to Hanoi was part of his "regular duties."

Tho returned to Paris a day after Cyrus R. Vance, deputy chief of the U.S. delegation, returned from the United States. There he not only conferred with President Johnson but also briefed Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon on the Paris talks.

Vance met with Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and other U.S. delegation members today. If he brought new instructions —in line with what appears to be at least a new emphasis on a soft line in Washington - there was no outward indication of it.

But there are signs that the Johnson administration's handling of the talks is undergoing either a policy change or a tactical shift tailored to U.S. domestic politics.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, told the National Committee for a Political Settlement in Vietnam Monday that he thought all bombing of North Vietnam should be stopped if Hanoi showed "restraint and reasonable response" in return. Humphrey said he was dropping the word "reciprocity" to describe conditions for a halt in the bombing.

LBJ Awaits Evaluation Of X-Rays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson is combining work with relaxation as he awaits expert evaluation of X rays of his ailing intestinal tract.

The medical findings presumably will determine whether Johnson must undergo surgery for the third time in four years —a possibility the Texas White House has refused to rule out.

Johnson made his third visit in a week Monday to Brooke Army Medical Center, San Antonio, where X rays of the lower intestine were made so doctors could assess the extent of his ailment called diverticulosis.

Normally not a serious or disabling condition, diverticulosis produces pouches on the inner lining of the intestine. Should these become inflamed, surgery might be required.

The White House made a point, however, of saying "the President is feeling fine. He is carrying on an active schedule."

The X rays were flown to the Bethesda, Md., Naval Medical Center and to the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. There they were being compared with X rays taken in previous years.

This was being done at Bethesda by Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, the President's personal physician, and at Roches-

Two Other Bombs Touched Off Later In Athens District

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — An attempt to assassinate strongman Premier George Papadopoulos was made today on a road outside Athens and later at least two bombs were exploded in Athens, a government spokesman said.

The spokesman said a bomb blew up on the road just about the time the premier's car was passing but Papadopoulos was unhurt. A man suspected of planting the bomb was seized.

It was the first known assassination attempt on any member of the army-backed Greek regime since the military seized power in a coup d'etat April 21, 1967.

The outbreaks showed every sign of being well coordinated and planned by resistance elements, the spokesman said.

A "Greek Resistance" movement had announced in Paris that organized resistance to the regime would begin today in Athens.

The government spokesman, Byron Stamatopoulos, told a news conference that the premier's car was traveling the 18 miles to Athens from his summer villa at Lagonisi when "an explosion occurred at the side of the road."

Stamatopoulos said the blast went off just after a security car preceding the Premier's car had passed and just before Papadopoulos' car reached the spot. The bomb was placed at the entrance of a road on the coastal bay skirting the Saronikos Gulf.

The spokesman said the 49-year-old premier "maintained his calm and stepped out of the car to see what happened."

Stamatopoulos identified the man as George Panagoulis, 30, a former commando lieutenant and said he was a deserter from the army.

The spokesman said security police caught Panagoulis as he raced toward the shore in an attempt to board a motor boat. He was wearing only bathing trunks.

The motor boat was unable to approach the shore because the water was filled with swimmers. The boat sped off when the driver saw Panagoulis had

Heaviest Combat In More Than Month In Mekong Delta

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces sweeping the southern approaches to Saigon killed 181 Viet Cong in four battles through the rice paddies of the Mekong Delta, military spokesmen reported today.

It was the heaviest combat in the sector in more than a month.

In one engagement infantrymen of the U.S. 9th Division smashed into a Viet Cong battalion and killed a third of the troops before the remainder fled under heavy American bombardment. Field reports said the Americans killed 104 of the enemy in the fight 21 miles southwest of Saigon.

The Americans also captured 13 prisoners and 36 weapons. U.S. casualties were 15 killed and 30 wounded.

After intelligence reports of about 300 Viet Cong in the area, helicopters landed more than 1,000 men of the 9th Division in the wet rice paddy area in an attempt to set up a cordon around the enemy force.

During the night, the fight tapered off to sporadic gun bursts and the surviving Viet Cong slipped away. Contact was reported lost, but the U.S. infan-

Area Officers Check On Iron-Laden Truck

Tri-state area law enforcement agencies joined in an investigation today after a rented truck loaded with pig iron was found abandoned on the East Liverpool - Midland Rd. just east of the Beaver Creek Bridge.

A man who gave a Canfield address told police the van-type truck which he had rented was stolen from Etruria St., East End, between 3 and 6 this morning. Officers said the cargo of pig iron found in the van may have been stolen from an East End river terminal.

An East Liverpool officer spotted the heavily-laden truck moving east this morning and radioed Midland officers to intercept it. Later, the truck was found abandoned alongside the highway.

Board, Council Meet

Patrol Problem Stirs 'No Funds'

By LUCILLE HUSTON

Members of the East Liverpool Board of Education and city officials agreed on only one thing during a discussion Monday on the school guard and patrol program — they do not have any money available for the school crossing protection system after Jan. 1.

Pelini opened the discussion by pointing out the major problem is the budget. "We had no indication that we would be asked to assume this program, and we did not anticipate such a cost when our budget was submitted to the state a month ago," he said. He also explain-school patrol always has been conducted by the state patrol and the police department.

MAYOR Willshaw read a letter he had prepared to send the board before Monday's meeting was set up. In it he says, "My suggestion to City Council that it eliminate city school crossing guards and request the board of education to assume this responsibility was twofold — safety and financial.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey came off the winner Monday night in a caucus of Ohio delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Presidential candidate preferences showed 60 votes for Humphrey, three for Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, one for Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, 26½ votes uncommitted, and 22½ votes absent.

Two delegates with one full vote each are deceased and Ohio's total of 115 convention votes is divided among 128 delegates.

National Committeeman Albert Porter of Cleveland said he had five proxy votes for Humphrey but they were not counted pending a check.

Since Ohio has no unit rule and delegates are not legally bound to any candidate, the preferences are an indication of first ballot voting at the convention. Frazier Reams Jr., of Toledo, Humphrey's Ohio campaign manager, said today "the vice president can count on at least 77 votes."

Ike Passes Critical Period Of 6th Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's condition has improved to the point where doctors have stopped issuing regular medical bulletins.

Doctors said Eisenhower passed the critical period Monday from his sixth heart attack. But officials at Walter Reed Army Hospital said his "convalescence is apt to be prolonged because of the general's previous attacks."

Petitions Ask For Speed On Water Setup

Glenmoor, Calcutta Land Owners Seek Immediate Action

Land owners of the Glenmoor-Calcutta area petitioned Columbiana County commissioners at Lisbon Monday to begin construction of the proposed $620,000 St. Clair water system "without any further delay."

William White of Spruce Court, Sprucevale Rd., presented the petition, which was signed by 166 land owners in the service area.

They said they are willing to be assessed for the water system and will purchase water when it is made available. "We want construction of this water system started immediately."

Ten property owners living on Berkshire and McIntosh Rds. in the general area of Longvue Heights signed another peition — "for the installation of water mains to our properties as an extension of the water system (St. Clair) of Columbiana County Water and Sewer District 2."

The proposed St. Clair system has been in litigation since last summer when the commissioners voted to proceed with the project. Last April, they accepted a low bid of $507,031 from Nardei Contracting Co., Inc., of Bridgeville, Pa.

Opponents lost their first legal move last fall, then, after changing counsel, withdrew another case in May in the face of the commissioners' demurrer. Late last June they filed an amended petition that the commissioners be restrained from going ahead with the project since they (property owners) have their own water wells and the $3 - per - front - foot assessment, they say, is excessive.

At one point in their latest petition, they claim the commissioners did not meet the statutory requirement of notifying all the property owners by mail.

Ten property owners living on Berkshire and McIntosh Rds. in the general area of Longvue Heights signed another peition — "for the installation of water mains to our properties as an extension of the water system (St. Clair) of Columbiana County Water and Sewer District 2."

The proposed St. Clair system has been in litigation since last summer when the commissioners voted to proceed with the project. Last April, they accepted a low bid of $507,031 from Nardei Contracting Co., Inc., of Bridgeville, Pa.

Opponents lost their first legal move last fall, then, after changing counsel, withdrew another case in May in the face of the commissioners' demurrer. Late last June they filed an amended petition that the commissioners be restrained from going ahead with the project since they (property owners) have their own water wells and the $3 - per - front - foot assessment, they say, is excessive.

At one point in their latest petition, they claim the commissioners did not meet the statutory requirement of notifying all the property owners by mail.

The DOCTOR Says

By Dr. W. G. Brandstadt

Fatality Low In First Heart Attacks

Q—What causes angina pectoris? How can one avoid it? How do Peritrate, Cardilate and propylthiouracil help it? Is digitalis poisonous to the heart?

Dr. Brandstadt

A—Angina pectoris is caused by a spasm or narrowing of one of the coronary arteries in the heart muscle. To prevent it you should avoid cigarettes, keep your weight below the upper normal limit for your height, have your doctor check your blood pressure and treat it if it is high, and get regular exercise every day rather than saving it up for the weekend or your vacation.

—:—

PERITRATE AND cardilate are long - acting nitrates given to dilate your coronary arteries. Propylthiouracil is given to counteract excessive thyroid secretion. Any beneficial effect it would have on angina would be indirect.

DIGITALIS IS GIVEN to produce slower, more forceful heart beats. If the dose is not carefully regulated, digitalis poisoning ushered in by vomiting will occur.

Q—I am 63 and have been advised by one doctor to take digoxin. Another advised digitalis. I took the latter for two weeks but stopped because it slowed my heart too much. Please explain the difference between these two drugs.

A—Digoxin is a purified derivative of digitalis leaves. It is preferred to digitalis because it is effective in much smaller doses. Both drugs must be taken under medical supervision.

Q—What is arteriosclerotic heart disease with hypertension? Is it serious?

A—This is hardening of the coronary arteries with high blood pressure. It is serious because without skillful treatment a coronary heart attack is certain to occur.

Q—What is cor pulmonale with congestive heart failure? What can be done for it?

A—Persons with an enlargement of the right ventricle of the heart (cor pulmonale) usually have congestive heart failure (a damming back of the blood and water-logging of the lungs). The treatment, which must be based on the individual needs of the victim, may include drugs to dilate the bronchial tubes, steam inhalations, digitalis and diuretics (water pills).

Q—I am a girl, 15. I always have cold hands even in warm weather. What causes this?

Budget Increase Proposed In Study Of Transportation

The City Planning Commission took under advisement Monday afternoon a recommendation for a 10 per cent increase in the budget for a proposed survey to demonstrate the feasibility of a "transportation demonstration study" that would provide federal aid for a modern mass transit system in the East Liverpool area on a trial basis.

The professional planning firm of Carroll V. Hill & Associates of Pittsburgh and Columbus suggested that the projected cost of the survey be boosted from $21,286 to $22,704. The commission voted to receive and file the letter for further study.

THE transportation demonstration project has been under consideration here for 12 to 18 months. The preliminary study, for which the higher budget was proposed, would cover a detailed survey and report on such aspects as: Population and land use considerations; population travel needs; existing transit operations; school bus and taxi operations; parcel deliveries and preparation of a detailed budget for the proposed operation.

The study would cover the entire East Liverpool trading are including adjacent communities, not just the city proper. Don Eckert, planning coordinator, explained to the commission that the city must show need for the demonstration project in order to obtain a grant to operate the system.

The application for aid would be filed with the urban transportation department of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. It would seek funds under the urban mass transportation act of 1964.

The study would seek to show the area's need for a modernized transit system, operating small buses on frequent, regular schedules, to carry workers to and from their jobs and others to and from the business district.

THE COMMISSION also studied data from the Hill concern on so-called "tiered" parking lots in use at Tacoma, Wash. Eckert explained that the ground floors of the multistoried lots are operated by stores and other private businesses.

The ground and the buildings also are owned privately, with the city operating parking facilities on the upper floors under easements from the owners. Some members of the commission questioned whether such a "wedding" of private enterprise and public property would be permitted under Ohio law.

The meeting was held in the coordinator's office at City Hall. Those attending were George Steele, chairman, James Grafton, Frank Mangano, John Parsons, Mayor George E. Willshaw and Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey.

City Jaycees Collect $4,000 To Hire Recreation Director

The East Liverpool Jaycees have obtained almost $4,000 in a campaign to employe a city recreation director, and are preparing to ask the city to fill the new position.

The original goal had been to obtain $6,000 to employ a director for the remaining six months of the year. With only some four months left in 1968, the $4,000 would be sufficient to pay the needed salary, it was explained.

Council had previously indicated to the Jaycees that although no city money is available for the current year, money would be allocated for 1969.

The Jaycees said applications are being received by Lang at Post Office Box 723, East Liverpool, for the position. The appointment will be made by city authorities.

It is hoped to provide a citywide, fulltime recreation program for young and old.

The Jaycee board last night accepted as new members Sgt. Ray Hilliard, Army recruiter, and Ronald Cline of the Ohio Employment Services office.

Plans were made for a district Jaycee outing at Waterford Park Aug. 28. It was announced the Jaycees had sponsored a dance for participants in the Colt baseball tournament here this month.

While this fight was going on Monday, other 9th Division troops were battling about 50 Viet Cong five miles to the north. Thirty-three of the enemy were reported killed, and two Americans were wounded.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that government troops killed another 44 Viet Cong soldiers in two fights in the same general area. Five government soldiers were killed and 22 wounded.

The U.S. 9th Infantry Division, along with South Vietnamese units, is responsible for Saigon's southern defensive perimeter. The Americal Division has several battalions sweeping through Long An Province and has had frequent clashes there with troops from seven Viet Cong battalions. Each enemy battalion in the area ranges in strength from 100 to 300 men, according to intelligence reports. These Communist battalions could be assigned to attack Saigon or some key district or provincial capital.

In Saigon itself, two damaging blows to Communist sabotage plans were reported.

Government agents raided a house four blocks from the sprawling Tan Son Nhut Air Base and seized a munitions cache containing 11 Chinese assault rifles, 200 pounds of dynamite and 50 rounds of bazooka-type rockets.

Two Vietnamese chauffeurs assigned to the U.S. Military Command's Pentagon East headquarters at Tan Son Nhut were arrested as part of a Viet Cong sabotage and assassination squad. The U.S. Military Command confirmed the two men were drivers for the command's motor pool. Two Vietnamese chauffeurs for the U.S. Embassy took part in the commando raid on the embassy last Jan. 31, at the start of the Tet offensive. One was killed and the other captured.

Girl, 18, Hurt In Car Crash

An 18-year-old girl passenger was hurt in a two-way auto mishap Monday afternoon on St. Clair Ave. at Jennings Ave., police reported.

The collision involved a northbound 1966 model convertible driven by Dana E. Means, 18, of 242 Ridgeway Ave. and a southbound 1963 sedan operated by Daniel B. Kristy, 16, of Columbia Ave.

Miss Leslie Curran, daughter of Andrew Curran of 764 Woodlawn Ave., was X-rayed at City Hospital for contusions and muscular strain of the neck suffered when she bumped her head against the windshield of the Means car. Means was cited on a charge of driving without an operator's permit.

Means told police he was driving north and saw the Kristy car stopped at the intersection. He said he believed the Kristy car might pull in front of him in making a turn, so he applied his brakes, causing his car to veer and strike the other auto. The mishap was timed at 3:23.

No one was injured in another collision at 5:05 p. m. Monday on Broadway 50 feet north of E. 6th St.

The mishap involved a halted 1967 sedan driven by Sandra Anzalone, 24, of 117 Harrison St., Newell, and a 1968 sedan operated by Nogel Kitchen, 56, of 1009 Florence St.

The young woman said she was halted in a line of traffic and her car was hit by Kitchen's vehicle as he backed away from the curb.

old Lamore said the caller told him he was telephoning from a service station on U.S. 1 and then broke off the conversation with: "Hurry up. Please."

The caller was gone when officers arrived.

Police officials said "we do not want to alarm the public," and added they thought the warning necessary because the caller "has indicated that he may attempt to take more lives."

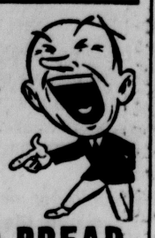

Police said it had not been determined if a third person was with Mrs. Clark and her daughter or why they came to the area.

Records in Atlanta, Ga., showed that Mrs. Clark formerly lived at 1767 N. Decatur Road for 11 days beginning May 14 and had been employed as a trainee at Emory University's psychological center in Atlanta. A spokesman at the center said Mrs. Clark left no forwarding address.

City Jaycees Collect $4,000 To Hire Recreation Director

The East Liverpool Jaycees have obtained almost $4,000 in a campaign to employe a city recreation director, and are preparing to ask the city to fill the new position.

The original goal had been to obtain $6,000 to employ a director for the remaining six months of the year. With only some four months left in 1968, the $4,000 would be sufficient to pay the needed salary, it was explained.

Council had previously indicated to the Jaycees that although no city money is available for the current year, money would be allocated for 1969.

The Jaycees said applications are being received by Lang at Post Office Box 723, East Liverpool, for the position. The appointment will be made by city authorities.

It is hoped to provide a citywide, fulltime recreation program for young and old.

The Jaycee board last night accepted as new members Sgt. Ray Hilliard, Army recruiter, and Ronald Cline of the Ohio Employment Services office.

Plans were made for a district Jaycee outing at Waterford Park Aug. 28. It was announced the Jaycees had sponsored a dance for participants in the Colt baseball tournament here this month.

Appreciating Industry

Residents of East Palestine late last week were reminded of some hard economic facts—stores are more than convenient counters where merchandise is sold, factories are more than noisy, grimy buildings where goods are manufactured.

The closing out of operations of the Natco Corp. glazed tile plant meant the end of some 90 jobs, an economic blow which staggered the families of the men involved, and radiated throughout the community in terms of reduced sales and cutbacks in services.

The decrease in tax revenue will also have an effect upon East Palestine's municipal operations, along with the losses of water and electric power charges.

The city had an amazing stroke of good fortune, however, which made up to a large degree the sad news about Natco. Royal China Co. began planning for the re-opening of a second pottery plant, which means more jobs and a new economic shot in the arm.

Employment is the basis for any city or town, either employment in the stores and industries within the corporation limits or so close that the residential area is conveniently located.

Some communities have "Industry Appreciation Days" to salute the firms which provide the jobs and tax foundation for their schools and homes.

Whether there should be formal observances or only regular efforts to facilitate the lines of communication between industries, businesses and the town is up to individual preferance—not just to acknowledge the role of management, stockholders and workers, but to remind the citizens of the significance of a prosperous, growing company in the total picture of municipal existence.

Emphasis On Moon Race

Economic realities being what they are, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has reduced its moon race program and is planning additional cutbacks.

To offset a large reduction in appropriations, NASA will chop 1,600 employes from its payroll, forget about building four additional booster rockets in the Saturn class, cancel an unmanned shot to Mars and put research on development of a nuclear rocket engine in limbo.

Other cost-cutting steps are waiting in the wings if the further reduction in funds materializes as expected because of the $6 billion federal budget slash.

IN JANUARY, NASA asked Congress for $4.37 billion for fiscal year operations. This figure was trimmed to $4 billion. Now, the $6-billion cut forced by congressional action in return for the surcharge, may eat way as much as $700 million from the $4 billion.

The more than $1-billion reduction in the original NASA request would mean work would proceed only on the moon mission, including its preliminary flights.

Following Russia's startling Sputnik shot, the drive for the United States to catch up received uninhibited congressional support. The race to the moon was on.

Both nations were willing to pour huge sums of money into lunar programs in hopes of reaping a rich harvest of prestige and military advantage. The Soviet Union's Sputnik was launched Oct. 4, 1957, but even in 1961 the U.S. space budget was only $1.7 billion.

As the program expanded, sophisticated facilities were constructed, gigantic testing projects were set up and hundreds of thousands of people became involved.

Vast facilities in Florida, including the largest building in the world, and the Mississippi Test Facility situated on 13,427 acres of swampland near New Orleans, built solely to test-fire Saturn rockets, shot the cost of the space program to record levels.

The space program has a lot of friends in Congress. The interest in exploration is high and the interest in beating Russia to the moon also is high.

BUT CONGRESS must weigh matters on the basis of priority. America's weakening financial status and domestic needs have weighed heavier with Congress recently than has the desire to reach into the unknown.

Even with the expected extensive cuts, the space program still will be a $3-billion operation. And it will be channeled to the Apollo program to keep the U.S. in the moon race.

Perhaps at some later date Congress and the American people will be faulted for holding down the space exploration program, right now it looks to be the only sensible thing to do.

'Statement Of Death'

The world Medical Assembly did what it had to do in adopting a code for determining death in heart donation cases, and in so doing, it has brought another phase of the controversy to light.

The assembly, representing doctors from 63 countries, adopted a "statement of death" that says two doctors must pronounce a potential heart donor dead before surgery can begin.

The new controversy will develop over a definition of death. The assembly gave no definition and no specific guidelines on how to determine when a person is dead—medically, legally or otherwise.

Sir Leonard Mallen, president of the association, said: "With scientific advances and methods of resuscitation always coming up, it would be silly of us to give a definition which could be outmoded within half an hour."

Some general rules were given to aid doctors in deciding when death occurs and this statement was made: ". . . the point of death of different cells and organs is not so important as the certainty that the process (of death) has become irreversible by whatever techniques of resuscitation that may be employed.

The hesitancy on the part of some doctors to indicate the death process early enough to remove a healthy heart for transplant is tied to moral, religious or medical beliefs.

They must decide at what point a patient is beyond help and it is not an easy task in many cases.

THE ASSEMBLY'S statement recognized the fundamental problem involved and said this about it: "However, no single technological criterion is entirely satisfactory in the present state of medicine nor can any one technological procedure be substituted for the over-all judgment of the physician."

It was with this specific issue in mind that the assembly voted to require the opinions of two doctors to confirm death to donor cases.

The medical profession is stepping into a new and exciting era of transplanting and there is need for caution. This is the outer space of medicine and still is relatively unknown.

The "death statement" by the assembly shows the concern of doctors over the issue and indicates a willingness to take some action.

Kicking The Gong Around

Unknown Quantity

By Art Buchwald

The selection of Gov. Spiro Agnew as Richard M. Nixon's running mate on the Republican ticket caught everyone including Gov. Agnew by surprise.

Art Buchwald

Having talked to many people and having pieced all the facts together I can now reveal how the Republicans made this choice.

An hour after Nixon was nominated to be his party's standard bearer he started conferring with Republican leaders as to who would be the vice presidential candidate.

The debate lasted well into the morning and from all reports it became bitter and occasionally acrimonious.

THIS IS HOW some of it went.

A party leader said, "What we need to balance the Republican ticket is an unknown quantity, somebody that the people don't know, somebody that they've never heard of before, somebody who could unite the party."

"That's all well and good," a second party spokesman said. "But where can we find someone at this late date that isn't a household name?"

A third member of the group. "How about what's-his-name?"

"Who?"

"You know, the senator from somewhere in the Midwest. I forget which state."

"He might be a possibility, but would the South take him?"

"I think it should be an unknown quantity from the West. If we're going to pick someone nobody's heard of, he should at least balance the ticket geographically."

"What about Mark Hatfield?"

"He's too well known. He's been mentioned by the press as a possibility, so people know who he is."

"They may know him, but he's certainly not a household name."

"NEVERTHELESS there are some voters in the United States who have heard of him, and therefore it would be too risky to nominate him. Don't forget this time we want to win."

"He's right," said one of Nixon's managers. "Why don't we go with Bill Miller, Barry Goldwater's running mate. He's the perfect unknown quantity. People never heard of him before he ran, and after he ran they still don't know who he is."

"It's a good idea, but that would mean both the president and vice president would be from New York state."

"That eliminates Miller. When we talk of an unknown quantity we have to pick someone who is a statesman, a leader, who is familiar with the problems of the cities, the counties and the suburbs."

"How do we know he's all these things if he's an unknown quantity?"

"You're always throwing up roadblocks," a party leader said angrily.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," said Nixon. "Let's remember we're all Republicans."

"What are the results?"

"They listed 10 of our leading unknown quantities and polled 113,678 people. The name of Spiro Agnew came in first every time. As a matter of fact, not one person surveyed knew who he was."

"Great. Who is he?"

"That's beautiful. He's not a household name, yet he can placate the South. Get him on the phone."

"We've been trying to. But because he's such an unknown quantity no one knows where he's staying."

What About Long Report?

WASHINGTON — There are election stories within election stories. This is a report on a specter stalking the U.S. Senate.

Victor Riesel

That elusive wraith is in the well-filled folios of the Senate Select Ethical Practices Committee, which gathered considerable evidence on the relationships of Missouri's Sen. Ed Long, friend of many a hoodlum, and then buried its documentation so no news of it would leak out, no hearings would be held, and no word of interlocking relationships would affect the Missourian's chances for winning last Tuesday's primary.

Well, despite powerful and utterly expensive support by some of the toughest and most unsavory Teamsters in the land, Ed Long lost.

But why did the men of national stature, whose names and influence lend prestige to the Select Committee on Standards and Conduct, grant political charity to Ed Long?

WHY HAS THE SENATE Ethics Committee locked up its files?

On this ethics committee are Sen. John Stennis, John Sherman Cooper, Gene McCarthy, Wallace Bennett, Mike Monroney and James Pearson.

Yet was it honorable for one or two of them to have sat both with the late Teamsters' bag carrier, Sidney Zagri, and also on this ethics body?

It is not so much Ed Long's association and socializing with Jimmy Hoffa, tough Roy Williams, a Teamsters national trustee (intensely investigated by the Justice Department's Organized Crime and Racketeering Section) and other Teamsters, which is involved here.

What is of concern is his relationship with those who had influence — and used it heavily — in that huge apple barrel known as the Teamsters Central States Southeast and Southwest Area Pension Fund.

From the Southern District of New York to the lush areas of California, U.S. attorneys call this the "tainted" fund.

IT HAS BEEN REPORTED that the Internal Revenue Service records on Ed Long were thoroughly examined by the Ethics Committee.

Even what they found is not important. Obviously all was handled legally by Long, including the $150,000 he has received in "referral fees" from that one-man political machine, St. Louis criminal lawyer Morris Shenker, since 1961.

What is vital is that Shenker, once attorney for Jimmy Hoffa, also counseled such men as the cold-blooded Frank "Buster" Wortman of East St. Louis' Hoodlum Hill.

Mr. Shenker also has been advocate for ex-convict Lawrence Callanan, boss of a St. Louis union political fund which, he boasts, has disbursed some $18 million.

All this is Morris Shenker's privilege. He is a lawyer. To each his own. Let every man decide professionally the taste of the bread on which he lives.

But it is vital to know what services a U.S. senator performed for counsellor Shenker. It is crucial that the U.S. Senate know this despite Ed Long's defeat, which came about despite his being portrayed as a crusader for the rights of the people by the "Labor's Educational and Political Club" of St. Louis and Kansas City.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Why Agnew?

The biggest question mark now is what the selection of the Nixon-Agnew ticket did to the Wallace movement not only in the South but in the border states and in some of the big cities of the North.

Although not often mentioned at the convention, the threat of a bloc of Wallace electoral votes that could cause the election to be decided in the House of Representatives was in the back of the minds of many of those who participated in the private conferences which Richard Nixon had as he sought to get a consensus on the selection of a vice-presidential candidate.

JUST AFTER NIXON won the nomination last week, George Wallace, in a televised interview with CBS, was asked whether his own candidacy had any effect on the choice made by the convention. He replied: "My candidacy played a great part in worrying the delegates and candidates."

News of just what occurred in the off-the-record conferences which Nixon had with various Republican leaders indicates he asked which prospective nominee for the vice presidency would be the "least offensive" to the South. Again and again the name of Spiro T. Agnew would come up as a second or third choice but certainly as "acceptable."

The careful way that Nixon went about choosing a running mate was admittedly based on his concern about losing the South to Wallace. It now looks as if Nixon may gain the electoral votes of many of the southern states, as Agnew could influence a large part of the Democratic vote there.

More important than this, however, is the impact on the border states as well as on the municipal areas in the North, where the white vote has been quietly expressing its opposition to the administration's policies in Washington and has apparently been getting ready to leave the Democratic party.

These voters are represented as wanting someone who will deal fairly with problems of law and order. Agnew is, of course, not an extremist, and was highly regarded by the "liberals" as long as he was supporting Gov. Rockefeller.

The impression the Maryland governor has conveyed is that he would help a Nixon administration to deal with racial questions on an objective basis.

The Washington Evening Star, which has a large circulation in Maryland and is familiar with the affairs of that state, commented editorially on the nomination of Gov. Agnew:

"Agnew has shown himself an able administrator. He has, with considerable political courage and finesse, tidied up Maryland's tangled fiscal affairs. He has put through the state's first open housing law. The suspicion here is that Agnew will prove himself a worthy addition to the Nixon team. And if the voters so decide in November, the federal government will have a conscientious, worthy and capable officer in its ranks."

Another factor which influenced the selection of Agnew was the viewpoint of the so-called ethnic groups. There has been a tendency to ignore them from the political standpoint. But they retain deep-seated feelings about the alleged indifference of the administration to the plight of the captive nations of Europe.

The choosing of a man for vice president whose father came from Greece and peddled vegetables for a living will not be lost on the voters in immigrant families, many of whom live in the big cities.

THERE IS MUCH discussion among the Republican politicians now about the Negro vote. Some of them believe that this will go largely to the Democratic party and that the Republicans have their best chance of getting electoral votes by wooing the whites in the big cities and suburbs.

Negro leaders who have been supporting the Republican ticket are well aware of the new political complexities. A few of them doubtless will recognize the political wisdom of supporting the Republican candidates so that, if they are elected, there will be an opportunity to exert influence inside the party in behalf of the Negro cause.

Both Nixon and Agnew are insisting that they will treat the civil rights problem objectively, without prejudice of any kind and without regard to extremist views.

Summing it up from a political point of view, it would appeal that the Republicans have made a very positive effort to take away Wallace votes not merely in the South but in the border states and in some of the northern states.

Appreciating Industry

Residents of East Palestine late last week were reminded of some hard economic facts—stores are more than convenient counters where merchandise is sold, factories are more than noisy, grimy buildings where goods are manufactured.

The closing out of operations of the Natco Corp. glazed tile plant meant the end of some 90 jobs, an economic blow which staggered the families of the men involved, and radiated throughout the community in terms of reduced sales and cutbacks in services.

The decrease in tax revenue will also have an effect upon East Palestine's municipal operations, along with the losses of water and electric power charges.

The city had an amazing stroke of good fortune, however, which made up to a large degree the sad news about Natco. Royal China Co. began planning for the re-opening of a second pottery plant, which means more jobs and a new economic shot in the arm.

Employment is the basis for any city or town, either employment in the stores and industries within the corporation limits or so close that the residential area is conveniently located.

Some communities have "Industry Appreciation Days" to salute the firms which provide the jobs and tax foundation for their schools and homes.

Whether there should be formal observances or only regular efforts to facilitate the lines of communication between industries, businesses and the town is up to individual preferance—not just to acknowledge the role of management, stockholders and workers, but to remind the citizens of the significance of a prosperous, growing company in the total picture of municipal existence.

Emphasis On Moon Race

Economic realities being what they are, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has reduced its moon race program and is planning additional cutbacks.

To offset a large reduction in appropriations, NASA will chop 1,600 employes from its payroll, forget about building four additional booster rockets in the Saturn class, cancel an unmanned shot to Mars and put research on development of a nuclear rocket engine in limbo.

Other cost-cutting steps are waiting in the wings if the further reduction in funds materializes as expected because of the $6 billion federal budget slash.

IN JANUARY, NASA asked Congress for $4.37 billion for fiscal year operations. This figure was trimmed to $4 billion. Now, the $6-billion cut forced by congressional action in return for the surcharge, may eat way as much as $700 million from the $4 billion.

The more than $1-billion reduction in the original NASA request would mean work would proceed only on the moon mission, including its preliminary flights.

Following Russia's startling Sputnik shot, the drive for the United States to catch up received uninhibited congressional support. The race to the moon was on.

Both nations were willing to pour huge sums of money into lunar programs in hopes of reaping a rich harvest of prestige and military advantage. The Soviet Union's Sputnik was launched Oct. 4, 1957, but even in 1961 the U.S. space budget was only $1.7 billion.

As the program expanded, sophisticated facilities were constructed, gigantic testing projects were set up and hundreds of thousands of people became involved.

Vast facilities in Florida, including the largest building in the world, and the Mississippi Test Facility situated on 13,427 acres of swampland near New Orleans, built solely to test-fire Saturn rockets, shot the cost of the space program to record levels.

The space program has a lot of friends in Congress. The interest in exploration is high and the interest in beating Russia to the moon also is high.

BUT CONGRESS must weigh matters on the basis of priority. America's weakening financial status and domestic needs have weighed heavier with Congress recently than has the desire to reach into the unknown.

Even with the expected extensive cuts, the space program still will be a $3-billion operation. And it will be channeled to the Apollo program to keep the U.S. in the moon race.

Perhaps at some later date Congress and the American people will be faulted for holding down the space exploration program, right now it looks to be the only sensible thing to do.

'Statement Of Death'

The world Medical Assembly did what it had to do in adopting a code for determining death in heart donation cases, and in so doing, it has brought another phase of the controversy to light.

The assembly, representing doctors from 63 countries, adopted a "statement of death" that says two doctors must pronounce a potential heart donor dead before surgery can begin.

The new controversy will develop over a definition of death. The assembly gave no definition and no specific guidelines on how to determine when a person is dead—medically, legally or otherwise.

Sir Leonard Mallen, president of the association, said: "With scientific advances and methods of resuscitation always coming up, it would be silly of us to give a definition which could be outmoded within half an hour."

Some general rules were given to aid doctors in deciding when death occurs and this statement was made: ". . . the point of death of different cells and organs is not so important as the certainty that the process (of death) has become irreversible by whatever techniques of resuscitation that may be employed.

The hesitancy on the part of some doctors to indicate the death process early enough to remove a healthy heart for transplant is tied to moral, religious or medical beliefs.

They must decide at what point a patient is beyond help and it is not an easy task in many cases.

THE ASSEMBLY'S statement recognized the fundamental problem involved and said this about it: "However, no single technological criterion is entirely satisfactory in the present state of medicine nor can any one technological procedure be substituted for the over-all judgment of the physician."

It was with this specific issue in mind that the assembly voted to require the opinions of two doctors to confirm death to donor cases.

The medical profession is stepping into a new and exciting era of transplanting and there is need for caution. This is the outer space of medicine and still is relatively unknown.

The "death statement" by the assembly shows the concern of doctors over the issue and indicates a willingness to take some action.

Kicking The Gong Around

Unknown Quantity

By Art Buchwald

The selection of Gov. Spiro Agnew as Richard M. Nixon's running mate on the Republican ticket caught everyone including Gov. Agnew by surprise.

Art Buchwald

Having talked to many people and having pieced all the facts together I can now reveal how the Republicans made this choice.

An hour after Nixon was nominated to be his party's standard bearer he started conferring with Republican leaders as to who would be the vice presidential candidate.

The debate lasted well into the morning and from all reports it became bitter and occasionally acrimonious.

THIS IS HOW some of it went.

A party leader said, "What we need to balance the Republican ticket is an unknown quantity, somebody that the people don't know, somebody that they've never heard of before, somebody who could unite the party."

"That's all well and good," a second party spokesman said. "But where can we find someone at this late date that isn't a household name?"

A third member of the group. "How about what's-his-name?"

"Who?"

"You know, the senator from somewhere in the Midwest. I forget which state."

"He might be a possibility, but would the South take him?"

"I think it should be an unknown quantity from the West. If we're going to pick someone nobody's heard of, he should at least balance the ticket geographically."

"What about Mark Hatfield?"

"He's too well known. He's been mentioned by the press as a possibility, so people know who he is."

"They may know him, but he's certainly not a household name."

"NEVERTHELESS there are some voters in the United States who have heard of him, and therefore it would be too risky to nominate him. Don't forget this time we want to win."

"He's right," said one of Nixon's managers. "Why don't we go with Bill Miller, Barry Goldwater's running mate. He's the perfect unknown quantity. People never heard of him before he ran, and after he ran they still don't know who he is."

"It's a good idea, but that would mean both the president and vice president would be from New York state."

"That eliminates Miller. When we talk of an unknown quantity we have to pick someone who is a statesman, a leader, who is familiar with the problems of the cities, the counties and the suburbs."

"How do we know he's all these things if he's an unknown quantity?"

"You're always throwing up roadblocks," a party leader said angrily.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," said Nixon. "Let's remember we're all Republicans."

"Mr. Nixon, our researchers compiled a list of strong vice presidential candidates that nobody's heard of and have just taken a spot survey."

"What are the results?"

"They listed 10 of our leading unknown quantities and polled 113,678 people. The name of Spiro Agnew came in first every time. As a matter of fact, not one person surveyed knew who he was."

"Great. Who is he?"

School Guard Discussion Closes With 'No Money'

guard is unable to report for duty. When this happens a police officer must be dispatched to the location. However there are times, due to any number of emergencies, that there is no officer available to take the guards place.

—:—

"AGAIN, if the protection was provided by the school, a substitute such as a member of the school patrol could take over the duty during the emergency. Another source of assistance is the Parent-Teacher organization of each school. Several members of these groups have offered their services.

"I feel it is the responsibility of the school board to assume the obligation of hiring crossing guards to protect the students rather than the city."

"When the city accepted this responsibility, we were told by our legal advisers that school boards were not permitted to provide guards. However, the state legislature since has seen fit through section 101.17 of the Ohio code to now make it permissible.

"When I informed one school official that I was going to request that the school board take over this obligation, he remarked that a part of the city income tax was to be used for this purpose. This is true, and at the time the tax was voted on it was stated that if the tax was rejected, it would be necessary to eliminate the guards. Of course this did not apply only to this operation, every department of the city would have been effected."

"MUNICIPALITIES and school boards are faced with the same problem," the mayor's letter continued, "of operating costs. Our expenses increase and we have no product to sell on which we can raise the price to recover, as is done in private business.

"The state of Ohio has seen fit, however, to favor school systems financially mostly at the expense of municipalities, as I see it. For example, from 1945 to 1965, municipal reliance on property tax has diminished by approximately 50 per cent, while schools have increased their share of the property tax by about 47 per cent. The source of this information is the Division of County Affairs, Ohio Board to Tax Appeals.

At the local level, in 1956 our property tax rate was $28 per $1,000 evaluation. It is now $41.-20, an increase of $13.20. Of this increase, the city receives 20 cents and the schools $11.90.

"Municipalities have been forced, by the state, in the last few years to meet rigid requirements involving the outlay of considerable funds for various programs such as the police and fire pensions, training of police, uniform traffic signals, etc., one of the latest being the requirement to install uniform caution lights at school crossings. We are forced to meet their requirements without any financial assistance.

"In fact, in the case of the crossing lights the law clearly states under Sect. 101.19 a board of education may not install traffic lights for the purpose of protecting pupils on their way to and from school. Such authority is granted to local governmental authorities only. Meeting this requirement will no doubt amount to several thousand dollars and have to be taken from the operating funds of the city."

PELINI again said, "the school board does not have money available."

Board member William Blair asked, "Which are we considering, the safety of the children or the funds?". He said, "I believe the first consideration must be the children, and the city is best qualified to train the guards and the patrol."

Board President Samuel Brown commented, "The best part of the safety program is the training coming from law officials, not from the laymen." Board member Harry McConville said, "We have no instructors for such a program."

At this point, Mayor Willshaw said, "The city does not have instructors available either."

Pelini asked, "They were getting instruction in the past, weren't they?"

"Not much," Willshaw ananswered. "Isn't the school re required to have a graded safty program," he asked.

Pelini said, "We have used officers very often in the past to show films and give safety instructions to the students.

Willshaw asked Brown if the board couldn't get an amended certificate on the budget.

BROWN answered, "Yes, if the money were available."

One of the board members then asked Willshaw about the flasher lights referred to in the letter. The mayor replied, "The state law says we have to provide the lights and they must be operating by Jan. 1, 1969. They will cost several thousand dollars to buy and install."

Eckert said, "From 1957 to 1967 the percentage of tax money available for the city has gone down while it has gone up for the schools."

Brown then asked, "Is it not true that a portion, I believe 2 cents on a dollar, was not to be used for the safety patrol guards?"

Massey said, "I will answer that since it stems from a statement I made when trying to get the tax passed. The only thing I said was that if the tax was not passed, we would lose the crossing guards and quite a few other services. The crossing guards were established because of accidents, not because the income tax was passed. At first, the program did not cost much, but last year a total of $11,000 was spent by the city for the program," Massey said.

When questioned by Brown why the board was not notified sooner of his intention to ask Council to turn the program over to the school board, Willshaw replied, "The law making it permissible for the school board to assume this responsibility was just recently brought to my attention by a member of Council who knows someone in another school system who had dealt with this problem.

IT WAS agreed by both groups that each had a point. Pelini said, "An important factor is who is most qualified to handle the program — who knows best where guards are needed, which direction they should face, which corner should they stand on? I believe the police know this best."

Willshaw again said he felt day-by-day supervision by the schools would better handle the problems.

Blair asked, "Aren't the people we've had the last two years responsible?"

Willshaw answered, "These people are supposedly trained, but are not."

Pelini said, "In effect, you are telling us we are going to need to hire teachers trained in science, social studies, etc., to supervise patrol every day on duty. Blair said, "No, we would need to hire a policeman, a teacher would not be qualified." Pelini said, "Then we again are getting into something that is not a basic function of education and not our responsibility."

One of the Council delegation then said that the youngsters can resume the responsibility—the department can handle the training of the youngsters.

"IN OTHER words, paying of the guards is what it comes down to," Blair said.

Willshaw still insisted that he felt the program could and should be improved. "Guards are not getting enough training," he said.

Blair then asked that it be clarified, "Are we talking about training the school safety patrol children or are we talking about training the adult guards? The adults are trained. If they need training, then they weren't qualified last year."

Willshaw said, "We are talking about the patrol. They need training, and if it were controlled by the school, the guard and patrol could be trained to work together."

Eckert said, "If they were working together as one unit responsible to school officials, you would have an upgraded system instead of having one group — the guards — responsible to the city officials, and one group — the patrol — responsible to the school."

Willshaw said the money is in the budget for the remainder of the calendar year of 1968, but would not be in the budget after that.

McConville said, "We are both in the same position. The state puts down the law, but doesn't give more financial help to carry it out."

BLAIR asked, "If there were sufficient funds for both groups, could we say — through better communications between the city and the school — that we could improve the program for the safety of the students? If we could help out on a given day, would this help?"

"Mayor," he asked, "do you feel these guards have not performed well?"

"No," replied Willshaw. "I have only had complaints about two guards, and I don't know for sure if these were resolved, but I feel with better training — improved school training for the school patrol — the program could be improved. We need to have better relationships between the school patrol and the guards."

Massey said, "Well, there has been some friction between the guards and the patrol, but I believe it has always been resolved."

Pelini then stated, "Gentlemen, I believe we are at an impasse. The city says it will have no money after the first of the year. The financial committee of the board of education says it does not have the money to pick up the cost of the program, so it appears we will have no guards after the first of the cleandar year.

Willshaw said, "It appears that way." The meeting ended on that note.

In other major caucus action, Betty J. Gaffney of Toledo was nominated as national committeewoman to succeed Helen Gunsett of Columbus, who did not seek re-election.

State Sen. Frank W. King of Columbus, president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, defeated Howard M. Metzenbaum of Shaker Heights for a position on the convention's important Credentials Committee. The other Ohioan on the committee will be Helen B. Karpinski of Cleveland.

Top campaign workers for Humphrey and McCarthy were in the city during the last hours before the caucus to pitch for their candidates. The apparently quiet efforts by Stephen Mitchell and Patrick Lucey for McCarthy contrasted with cocktails and a buffet dinner for delegates hosted by Lawrence F. O'Brien, national campaign coordinator for Humphrey.

The caucus withstood several delaying tactics — a motion to delay the candidate preference poll and several motions to adjourn.

In other action, the delegation named John J. Gilligan, of Cincinnati, candidate for the U.S. Senate, and Gertrude W. Donahey of Columbus, to the convention's Platform Committee; Robert Blakemore of Cuyahoga Falls, and Esther F. Pinsky of Bellaire, to the Committee on Rules and Order of Business; and C. J. School Guard Discussion Closes With 'No Money' guard is unable to report for duty. When this happens a police officer must be dispatched to the location. However there are times, due to any number of emergencies, that there is no officer available to take the guards place.

—:—

"AGAIN, if the protection was provided by the school, a substitute such as a member of the school patrol could take over the duty during the emergency. Another source of assistance is the Parent-Teacher organization of each school. Several members of these groups have offered their services.

"I feel it is the responsibility of the school board to assume the obligation of hiring crossing guards to protect the students rather than the city."

"When the city accepted this responsibility, we were told by our legal advisers that school boards were not permitted to provide guards. However, the state legislature since has seen fit through section 101.17 of the Ohio code to now make it permissible.

"When I informed one school official that I was going to request that the school board take over this obligation, he remarked that a part of the city income tax was to be used for this purpose. This is true, and at the time the tax was voted on it was stated that if the tax was rejected, it would be necessary to eliminate the guards. Of course this did not apply only to this operation, every department of the city would have been effected."

"MUNICIPALITIES and school boards are faced with the same problem," the mayor's letter continued, "of operating costs. Our expenses increase and we have no product to sell on which we can raise the price to recover, as is done in private business.

"The state of Ohio has seen fit, however, to favor school systems financially mostly at the expense of municipalities, as I see it. For example, from 1945 to 1965, municipal reliance on property tax has diminished by approximately 50 per cent, while schools have increased their share of the property tax by about 47 per cent. The source of this information is the Division of County Affairs, Ohio Board to Tax Appeals.

At the local level, in 1956 our property tax rate was $28 per $1,000 evaluation. It is now $41.-20, an increase of $13.20. Of this increase, the city receives 20 cents and the schools $11.90.

"Municipalities have been forced, by the state, in the last few years to meet rigid requirements involving the outlay of considerable funds for various programs such as the police and fire pensions, training of police, uniform traffic signals, etc., one of the latest being the requirement to install uniform caution lights at school crossings. We are forced to meet their requirements without any financial assistance.

"In fact, in the case of the crossing lights the law clearly states under Sect. 101.19 a board of education may not install traffic lights for the purpose of protecting pupils on their way to and from school. Such authority is granted to local governmental authorities only. Meeting this requirement will no doubt amount to several thousand dollars and have to be taken from the operating funds of the city."

PELINI again said, "the school board does not have money available."

Board member William Blair asked, "Which are we considering, the safety of the children or the funds?". He said, "I believe the first consideration must be the children, and the city is best qualified to train the guards and the patrol."

Board President Samuel Brown commented, "The best part of the safety program is the training coming from law officials, not from the laymen." Board member Harry McConville said, "We have no instructors for such a program."

At this point, Mayor Willshaw said, "The city does not have instructors available either."

Pelini asked, "They were getting instruction in the past, weren't they?"

"Not much," Willshaw answered. "Isn't the school required to have a graded safty program," he asked.

Pelini said, "We have used officers very often in the past to show films and give safety instructions to the students.

Willshaw asked Brown if the board couldn't get an amended certificate on the budget.

BROWN answered, "Yes, if the money were available."

One of the board members then asked Willshaw about the flasher lights referred to in the letter. The mayor replied, "The state law says we have to provide the lights and they must be operating by Jan. 1, 1969. They will cost several thousand dollars to buy and install."

Eckert said, "From 1957 to 1967 the percentage of tax money available for the city has gone down while it has gone up for the schools."

Brown then asked, "Is it not true that a portion, I believe 2 cents on a dollar, was not to be used for the safety patrol guards?"

Massey said, "I will answer that since it stems from a statement I made when trying to get the tax passed. The only thing I said was that if the tax was not passed, we would lose the crossing guards and quite a few other services. The crossing guards were established because of accidents, not because the income tax was passed. At first, the program did not cost much, but last year a total of $11,000 was spent by the city for the program," Massey said.

When questioned by Brown why the board was not notified sooner of his intention to ask Council to turn the program over to the school board, Willshaw replied, "The law making it permissible for the school board to assume this responsibility was just recently brought to my attention by a member of Council who knows someone in another school system who had dealt with this problem.

There was no indication when the results of this study would be announced.

With all that, Johnson had ample time for relaxing drives around his ranch property.

Cain made an unannounced trip to San Antonio last week, apparently at White House request, to look over some of t nob apparently at White House request, to look over some of the results of medical checkups given both the President and Mrs. Johnson.

Court Dismisses Hit-Skip Charge Against City Man

Albert W. Hartley of Lincoln Ave. was acquitted today in a hearing before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge he failed to stop after his backing auto hit a neighbor's car about 2:30 a. m. last Thursday on Lincoln Ave.

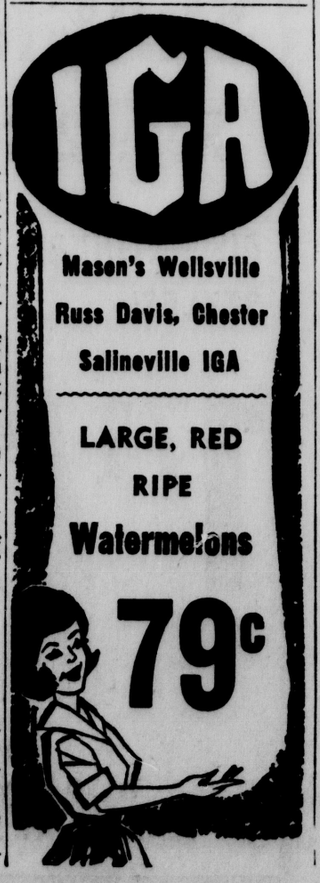

Hartley was named in an affidavit signed by Earl W. Manges, also of Lincoln Ave., who testified he witnessed the mishap and added that Hartley did not stop. The affidavit said the parked car was owned by George T. Fowler.

Manges testified he and his wife were awakened by a crash and saw Hartley had caught the fender of his car while backing his auto out of his garage. Hartley's car crossed the street and hit Powell's auto, but Hartley did not stop, Manges added.

Hartley testified he was unaware his car had hit Fowler's vehicle. In dismissing the charge, the judge said he was "convinced" that Hartley was unaware of the crash and added the law provides a motorist must "knowingly" leave the scene of a crash before he can be convicted.

Nixon Aide Gives Crime Top Billing

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — One of Richard M. Nixon's top advisers on issues awards top campaign billing to crime and civil disorder—subjects the Republican presidential candidate's aides already consider crucial and potentially troublesome.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, chairman of Nixon's key issues committee, confers with the former vice president today.

Nixon's aides foresee difficulty in stressing law and order, and an end to disturbances, without appearing insensitive to the plight of Negroes in urban slums.

Nixon already has devoted considerable attention to the subject, insisting that order and progress must go hand in hand, urging a program of "black capitalism," to offer city Negroes "a piece of the action" of American enterprise.

Charles S. Rhyne, chairman of United Citizens for Nixon, said Monday that this program, which would be based largely on tax incentives, is attracting interest in the Negro community. Rhyne said the interest is being translated into support.

He said there are large numbers of Negroes in the citizens campaign organization, but he could not say how many that meant.

Tower said "the growing crime rate and disorders in our cities" represent the major issue of the campaign. He said there is a need for the federal government to provide more effective steps to cope with "massive civil disorders."

The Texas senator also criticized Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, saying he believes Clark is attempting to create "an atmosphere of good will" in which crime would diminish.

"This is phony," said Tower.

Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the GOP nominee for vice president, also has placed heavy emphasis on the issue of law enforcement, stirring some controversy with his statement that policemen should be authorized to fire at looters who disregard orders to stop during city riots.

Tower said "the continuing war of attrition in Vietnam" is also a prime campaign issue. He would not discuss this in specific terms, saying, like Nixon, that he feared such political talk might hamper the peace negotions in Paris.

Beethoven's Third Symphony, now known as the "Eroica," was once dedicated to Napoleon. After Napoleon made himself emperor of France, Beethoven regarded him as a tyrant and rededicated the symphony to "the memory of a great man."

Meeting Planned With Custodians On Pay Proposal

A meeting was scheduled today between school officials and representatives of school custodians concerning upgraded wage proposals.

The session was slated at 4 p.m. with representatives of Local 677, State, County and Municipal Employes, as a result of arrangements made by Assistant School Supt. Carl Pelini and James Kelly, union aide at Youngstown.

The negotiating team of the union has been authorized to call a strike by the local custodians.

Board of Education President Samuel Brown said the board has had two meetings with the group, receiving a list of proposals sought by the workers, but had not received any other information about the contracts "other than what has appeared in the newspaper until Mr. Kelly called and asked for a meeting."

"I want to say," he added, "The board is always willing, except when another session is already scheduled, to negotiate anytime."

The Texas senator also criticized Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, saying he believes Clark is attempting to create "an atmosphere of good will" in which crime would diminish.

"This is phony," said Tower.

Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the GOP nominee for vice president, also has placed heavy emphasis on the issue of law enforcement, stirring some controversy with his statement that policemen should be authorized to fire at looters who disregard orders to stop during city riots.

Tower said "the continuing war of attrition in Vietnam" is also a prime campaign issue. He would not discuss this in specific terms, saying, like Nixon, that he feared such political talk might hamper the peace negotions in Paris.

Beethoven's Third Symphony, now known as the "Eroica," was once dedicated to Napoleon. After Napoleon made himself emperor of France, Beethoven regarded him as a tyrant and rededicated the symphony to "the memory of a great man."

Meeting Planned With Custodians On Pay Proposal

A meeting was scheduled today between school officials and representatives of school custodians concerning upgraded wage proposals.

The session was slated at 4 p.m. with representatives of Local 677, State, County and Municipal Employes, as a result of arrangements made by Assistant School Supt. Carl Pelini and James Kelly, union aide at Youngstown.

The negotiating team of the union has been authorized to call a strike by the local custodians.

Board of Education President Samuel Brown said the board has had two meetings with the group, receiving a list of proposals sought by the workers, but had not received any other information about the contracts "other than what has appeared in the newspaper until Mr. Kelly called and asked for a meeting."

"I want to say," he added, "The board is always willing, except when another session is already scheduled, to negotiate anytime."

GIs Die Without Shot By Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without the enemy firing a shot, the equivalent of two to three squads of GIs die each week in Vietnam, becoming in effect the hidden dead of the war.

They are the victims of disease or mishap who are lumped toward the end of the casualty reports as simply "dead from nonhostile causes."

Although the rate for Vietnam is lower than in two previous wars, noncombat deaths represent a consistent manpower drain of major cumulative proportions.

Since Jan. 1, 1961, noncombat deaths listed by the Pentagon total at least 4,300—roughly 14 per cent of all American losses in the war.

Military medical men say the noncombat death rate in Vietnam is slightly lower than in World War II or Korea but not enough to boast about.

Because of improved medicines and quicker treatment, U.S. servicemen stricken with disease have a better chance of pulling through in Vietnam than in other wars. But sea and land accidents persist, accounting for large numbers of deaths.

A computerized tabulation made by the Pentagon covering the period Jan. 1, 1961 through May 30, 1968, lists 3,936 "nonhostile" deaths. The total rose to 4,298 as of Aug. 3.

Of the 3,936 deaths checked by computer, 2,229 occurred in aircraft crashes on land and sea, 336 in vehicular accidents, 226 from disease (more than one-fifth from malaria), 128 from heart attack or stroke, 293 from accidential homicide, 779 from various other accidents and the remainder from assorted other causes.

Medical statisticians warning that there are many variables, figure the noncombat fatality rate in Vietnam is 3.5 per-thousand men per-year.

Compared to 3.7 per-thousand per-year in Korea (1950-1952) and 3.9 per-thousand per-year in all overseas theaters of World War II (1942-45). However, the nonhostile rate in the European theater in World War II was only 3.6.

"There is nothing dramatic or astonishing in the Vietnam figure," said one official. "At best it is only an indication that things aren't going to pot."

The question of whether a death is to be categorized "hostile" or "nonhostile" usually is clearcut. But it sometimes enters a gray area where interpretations may be required up to the service headquarters level in the Pentagon.

The basic decision—which may be reversed after review by high echelons—is made in Vietnam, sometimes at battalion and division levels. Interpretations may be simple but occasionally are difficult to the point of controversy, and can vary from service to service.

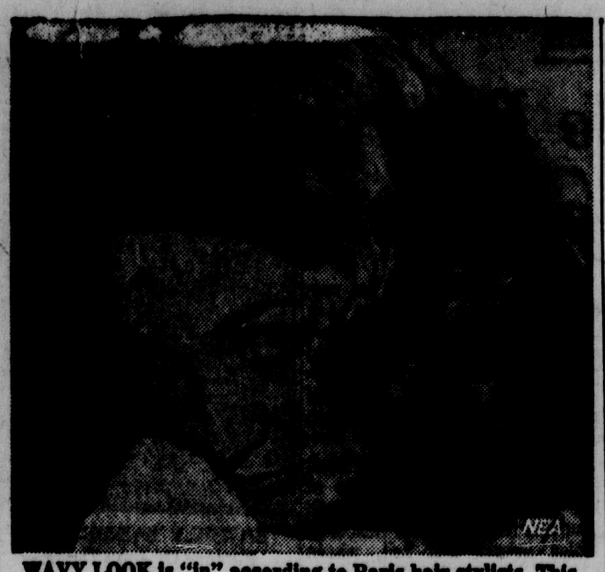

Example: A jeep runs over a U.S. mine. The ruling in one such case was hostile, because officers held that the mine wouldn't have been along that road were it not for the presence of the enemy.

Example: A man wading across a river during a night patrol drowns. The ruling in this case was to reverse an original "hostile" listing to "nonhostile" on grounds the patrol encountered no enemy resistance.

But, in another case, two B52s collided en route before arriving in Vietnam for a bombing strike. The original ruling was "nonhostile," but officials later changed it on grounds that the bombers wouldn't have been flying in such tight formation except during a bombing mission.

Nonhostile labels often are viewed with indignation by servicemen's widows or other close relatives who sometimes complain that if it wasn't for Vietnam and a hostile enemy their loved one wouldn't have been there to die.

Benefits are the same in hostile or nonhostile deaths except that only those killed in action or dying from hostile wounds get the Purple Heart.

Democrat Platform Unit Opens Regional Hearings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Stressing the need to involve voters in political decisions, the Democratic Platform Committee opens here today its second session of regional hearings in Ohio.

"For too many years they have not been able to get into smokefilled rooms to tell what they believe — what they want and what they need," said John J. Gilligan, charman of the platform hearings.

Gilligan, also Ohio Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, expressed the view in a statement prepared for delivery at the hearings today.

Gilligan lashed the Republicans for their continuing "practice of cracker barrel politics" and asserted they "fail to consult the people before issuing their meaningless platform."

The hearings, which were held in Cleveland Monday and will wind up in Columbus Wednesday, emphasize findings out what the people want in the Democratic platform.

Monday, Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes and Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, agreed the platform should include a stand for massive federal aid to cities.

Cleveland and other cities need "a massive federal investment — not spending" to help them solve problems of blight and deterioration, air and water pollution, crime and education, Stokes said.

Stokes also called for a national minimum income for persons unable to work.

Gilligan endorsed three of Stokes' proposals, saying he would recommend them to the Platform Committee.

Gilligan agreed the platform should contain a job guarantee program, a national guaranteed minimum income to replace welfare payments, and national urban land banks.

Vanik, the 21st District congressman now running in the 22nd District, suggested a move to reduce the number of American troops in Western Europe and a suspension of bombing in North Vietnam.

Last Resident Of Ghost Town Claimed At 86

BALLARAT, Calif. (AP) — Seldom Seen Slim, 86, earned his nickname with the way he lived—a recluse for 50 years in a desolate corner of Death Valley.

After all those lonely years Slim was the last resident of Ballarat, now a ghost town.

Welfare records indicated he was born Charles Ferge on Oct. 21, 1881, in Springfield, Ill., but Slim always said, "I got no people . . . I was born in an orphanage."

The last of Ballarat's seven saloons shut down in 1917, after the gold and silver mines petered out, but Slim stayed.

"I don't get lonely," he explained. "Hell, I'm half coyote and half wild burro."

Last Tuesday Slim was found ailing in his rundown trailer in Ballarat's ruins. He was taken 70 miles to Trona, but he lived only five days.

A simple funeral is planned Saturday in Boot Hill. It will be the first burial in Ballarat in half a century.

Nigeria Spurns Plea, Talks Stall

Chance Of Getting Food, Medicine To Biafra Dim

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Prospects of getting sufficient food and medicine to the starving Biafrans grew dimmer today after the Nigerian government spurned an appeal to stop shooting at Red Cross planes and peace talks in the Ethiopian capital stalled.

"The Nigerian reaction is to shoot at any plane," an International Red Cross spokesman reported after the Lagos government rejected its appeal to quit shooting at mercy flights into blockaded secessionist Biafra.

The Red Cross, which had been flying food and medicine into besieged Biafra since November, suspended flights from the Spanish island of Fernando Po, 100 miles off the Nigerian coast, after a DC6 carrying food was fired on over the weekend.

Fears that arms are being airlifted into Biafra in large quantities are behind the federal government's action, the Red Cross spokesman said, but he added that negotiations were continuing. He denied that any Red Cross flights carried arms and military supplies, although he said he had heard larger quantities of arms are being flown to Biafra since President Charles de Gaulle expressed support for the secession.

Caritas, the Roman Catholic relief organization, also has been flying supplies to Biafra, using chartered planes that fly over Nigeria at night to evade the Nigerian air force. But all the flights have been able to carry only a fraction of the food needed to ward off mass starvation.

The U.S. State Department announced that Secretary of State Dean Rusk is sending a special emissary to Geneva for "urgent consultations" with Red Cross officials on ways to resume the mercy flights. The emissary, C. Robert Moore, deputy assistant secretary of state for African affairs, is being accompanied by a team of experts on Africa and disaster relief.

U.S. officials in Washington also reported that 200 to 400 persons are dying of starvation each day in Nigeria and Biafra as a result of the civil war. The estimate is based on figures compiled by the U.S. Embassy in Lagos, the Red Cross and voluntary agencies.

Officials estimated about 3 million persons behind the rebel lines in Biafra and about 750,000 persons in territory reoccupied by federal Nigerian forces are in urgent need of food. All told, the civil war has affected some 13 million persons in what was formerly the Eastern Region of Nigeria.

The Red Cross went ahead with plans to transport food by ship from Lagos to Calabar, about 400 miles eastward along the southern coast, where an estimated 280,000 refugees are located. Calabar is in federal control.

The German ship, Minna Schupp, was to leave today with 700 tons of food. The Red Cross also is chartering a ship with a 620-ton payload to carry relief supplies to Calabar starting in September.

The Nigerian-Biafran peace talks in Addis Ababa started Aug. 5 under the auspices of the Organization of African Unity (OAU), but pessimism deepened today as the chief Nigerian negotiator went back to Lagos and a spokesman said he did not plan to return, "unless there is going to be something that demands his presence."

Object In Sky Strikes Vessel, Injuring Three

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — An object from the sky hit a 175-foot oil survey vessel, the Pacific Seal, setting a fire Monday night that could be seen on shore 15 miles away.

At the time Sidewinder air-to-air missiles were being fired at flare targets by a Navy fleet squadron in the sea test range nearby.

Three members of the 18-man crew were injured, two reportedly seriously. They were flown by helicopter to Pt. Mugu Naval Air Station.

Cmdr. Gordon Frey, spokesman at Pt. Mugu, said the cause of the explosion was not determined immediately "but we did have aircraft in the area," he said.

The object penetrated three steel structures in the vessel owned by Falgout Boats, Inc., of Galveston, Tex., and under charter to Vigicon Co., Houston, Tex.

Gilligan Staff Losing Leading Strategist

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The campaign staff of Democratic Senate candidate John J. Gilligan is losing a top political strategist before it even got him.

"It was to be expected," said an aide to Gilligan, commenting Monday on the announcement that Frank Mankiewicz is joining the staff of Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota.

"Most of the Kennedy people are now working for McGovern," said Gilligan staffer David Vienna.

Mankiewicz, press secretary to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, earlier had indicated he would work for Gilligan.

McGovern announced Saturday that he was an active candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

U.S. Automakers Reported Moving To Smaller-Car Era

By The Associated Press

U.S. automobile manufacturers are reported to be moving into an era of smaller cars.

Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. of the American Motors Corp. said in Washington Monday that his firm is prepared to challenge foreign car makers for the affections of America's economy-minded drivers.

The New York Times said in a story from Detroit today that the auto industry is preparing a new class of cars—smaller and cheaper than any built in this country now but still bigger than the tiny imports.

The Times said the first of these new cars is set for production by the Ford Motor Co. as a 1970 model and will go on sale in eight months. Others are in the design or tooling stage, it said.

For Detroit, the Times said these cars represent a major effort by the industry to combat an invasion of foreign products built by low-paid German and Japanese workers.

Other car makers are working to catch up with Ford, the story said, adding in part: The General Motors Corp. is working on a car closer in size to the tiny European imports. The Chrysler Corp. is not now planning to build a smaller, cheaper car.

In Washington, Chapin told newsmen at a dinner meeting and preview of his firm's new models Monday that American Motors is developing a new car, "Not necessarily conventional in terms of today's accepted automotive configurations."

Chapin declined to expand the statement, but he had said earlier: "I believe that the 900,000 foreign car sales this year will be a high-water mark, and one of the reasons is that we at American Motors are turning more of our efforts toward the growing segment of the U.S. market to which the imports appeal."

Two Vietnamese Chauffeurs Cited In Sabotage Plot

SAIGON (AP) — Two Vietnamese chauffeurs for the U.S. Military Assistance Command's headquarters in Saigon have been arrested as part of a Viet Cong sabotage and assassination squad, the national police announced today.

The U.S. Military Command confirmed that the two men were dispatch drivers at the motor pool next to the command's Pentagon East headquarters at Tan Son Nhut Airport. Their duties included driving for U.S. officers below the rank of general.

The police presented the sabotage squad of six men and a woman at a news conference and said they had been captured on the outskirts of Saigon at the end of July along with nine Chinese pistols and a quantity of explosives.

Col. Tran Van Hai, the director-general of the national police, said the squad was under orders to assassinate U.S. and Vietnamese officials in Saigon and to blow up installations in the city.

Stacey To Issue Hunting Licenses

LISBON — The clerk of courts office at the Courthouse will issue hunting licenses this year for the first time.

Carl L. Stacey, clerk, says he has a supply of the 1968 licenses. Hunters must wear the tags beginning Sept. 1.

Stacey said hunters will be able to get licenses in their home communities as in the past, but he will have them on hand as a matter of convenience for persons visiting the Courthouse on other business.

The legal section of the clerk's office issued fishing licenses this year for the first time. Over 500 applications were processed, Stacey said.

Criminal Negligence Ruled Out In Death

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Mahoning County Coroner Dr. David A. Belinky Monday said he found no criminal negligence was involved in the death last week of Samuel Lopez, 29, of Youngstown.

Belinky said Lopez died of shock and internal bleeding following a spinal disc operation performed by Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard at Youngstown Osteopathic Hospital.

Mrs. Florence Marsteller, administrator of the hospital, said no question of negligence has been raised in the case.

U.S. Automakers Reported Moving To Smaller-Car Era

By The Associated Press

U.S. automobile manufacturers are reported to be moving into an era of smaller cars.

Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. of the American Motors Corp. said in Washington Monday that his firm is prepared to challenge foreign car makers for the affections of America's economy-minded drivers.

The New York Times said in a story from Detroit today that the auto industry is preparing a new class of cars—smaller and cheaper than any built in this country now but still bigger than the tiny imports.

The Times said the first of these new cars is set for production by the Ford Motor Co. as a 1970 model and will go on sale in eight months. Others are in the design or tooling stage, it said.

For Detroit, the Times said these cars represent a major effort by the industry to combat an invasion of foreign products built by low-paid German and Japanese workers.

Other car makers are working to catch up with Ford, the story said, adding in part: The General Motors Corp. is working on a car closer in size to the tiny European imports. The Chrysler Corp. is not now planning to build a smaller, cheaper car.

In Washington, Chapin told newsmen at a dinner meeting and preview of his firm's new models Monday that American Motors is developing a new car, "Not necessarily conventional in terms of today's accepted automotive configurations."

Chapin declined to expand the statement, but he had said earlier: "I believe that the 900,000 foreign car sales this year will be a high-water mark, and one of the reasons is that we at American Motors are turning more of our efforts toward the growing segment of the U.S. market to which the imports appeal."

Two Vietnamese Chauffeurs Cited In Sabotage Plot

SAIGON (AP) — Two Vietnamese chauffeurs for the U.S. Military Assistance Command's headquarters in Saigon have been arrested as part of a Viet Cong sabotage and assassination squad, the national police announced today.

The U.S. Military Command confirmed that the two men were dispatch drivers at the motor pool next to the command's Pentagon East headquarters at Tan Son Nhut Airport. Their duties included driving for U.S. officers below the rank of general.

The police presented the sabotage squad of six men and a woman at a news conference and said they had been captured on the outskirts of Saigon at the end of July along with nine Chinese pistols and a quantity of explosives.

Col. Tran Van Hai, the director-general of the national police, said the squad was under orders to assassinate U.S. and Vietnamese officials in Saigon and to blow up installations in the city.

Criminal Negligence Ruled Out In Death

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Mahoning County Coroner Dr. David A. Belinky Monday said he found no criminal negligence was involved in the death last week of Samuel Lopez, 29, of Youngstown.

Mrs. Florence Marsteller, administrator of the hospital, said no question of negligence has been raised in the case.

Suspended Jail Sentences Given Man On 2 Counts

Phillip Monac of 1094 Pennsylvania Ave. was given suspended 10-day County Jail terms today in Municipal Court on two charges and fined $10 and costs on two others — the result of an altercation with an officer who attempted to settle a domestic disturbance at Monac's home early Sunday.

Monac was given the suspended jail terms by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on charges he "resisted and obstructed" Patrolman H. Clyde Dillon and "menaced" him by threatening to shoot him. He was fined $10 on charges of intoxication and using indecent language and profanity.

Monac failed to appear for scheduled hearings yesterday on the intoxication and language charges. The court forfeited his two $32.50 appearance bonds and ordered his arrest on a bench warrant. The two additional charges were filed overnight. The bond forfeitures were allowed to stand in addition to the fines imposed today, so the combined fines, costs and forfeitures totaled $115.

The officer said Monac cursed him and struggled when he was placed under arrest. Alhough Monac threatened to shoot the officer, there apparently was no gun in the house, Dillon said. The judge said the fact Monac has three small children deterred him from imposing the jail terms.

Suspended Jail Sentences Given Man On 2 Counts

Phillip Monac of 1094 Pennsylvania Ave. was given suspended 10-day County Jail terms today in Municipal Court on two charges and fined $10 and costs on two others — the result of an altercation with an officer who attempted to settle a domestic disturbance at Monac's home early Sunday.

Monac was given the suspended jail terms by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on charges he "resisted and obstructed" Patrolman H. Clyde Dillon and "menaced" him by threatening to shoot him. He was fined $10 on charges of intoxication and using indecent language and profanity.

Monac failed to appear for scheduled hearings yesterday on the intoxication and language charges. The court forfeited his two $32.50 appearance bonds and ordered his arrest on a bench warrant. The two additional charges were filed overnight. The bond forfeitures were allowed to stand in addition to the fines imposed today, so the combined fines, costs and forfeitures totaled $115.

The officer said Monac cursed him and struggled when he was placed under arrest. Alhough Monac threatened to shoot the officer, there apparently was no gun in the house, Dillon said. The judge said the fact Monac has three small children deterred him from imposing the jail terms.

Calm Returns To District

Police Pack Ammunition And Leave Watts Post

An outbreak of shooting and looting Sunday midnight brought three deaths and 48 injuries, but a police spokesman said the only activity Monday night was an increase in minor fires.

One fire did $35,000 damage to a quilting plant four miles from the disturbance scene in south-central Los Angeles. The fire's origin was undetermined.

Long before sunup, police closed the command post in Alan Locke High School from which 2,000 officers had been directed on constant patrol.

Rumors of trouble whipped through Watts Monday night but that's what they turned out to be—rumors. There was little more than normal night activity.

All three of the dead Sunday were Negro men. Police said at least two were killed by Negro gunfire, and the third may have been shot by police, who reacted quickly and massviely to sniping and looting.

Six of the wounded were policemen. Thirty-six other persons were treated for gun wounds and six for injuries. Two were listed as critical.

There were 35 arrests, 28 of them on felony charges.

The outburst began with rock throwing, followed by sniper gunfire and looting, when police arrested a drunken woman in Will Rogers Park, scene of the third annual Watts Summer Festival.

The festival ironically commemorated the 1965 riot that cost 34 lives and $40 million property damage.

All through the warm Monday and the cool, pleasant night, police maintained their vigil, as Watts remained relatively still.

The night was marked by an occasional trash can fire. Along 103rd Street, dubbed "Charcoal Alley" after the 1965 disorder, knots of youngsters yelled epithets at passing patrol cars, but there was no violence.

Rumors of other fires were unconfirmed.

The demonstrators had mimeographed demands that police pull out and "let blacks do their own patroling and be responsible to a commission elected by the community."

In similar vein, Billy Tidwell, a director of the Watts Summer Festival, called the police mobilization "wholesale unwarranted assault" and accused police of "raiding" the festival headquarters in the park.

He and Tommy Jacquette, another festival leader, said the number of officers in the area should have been reduced immediately.

Police Chief Thomas Reddin told a news conference a "massive response" by police put down the disorder and the area remained "saturated."

"The question of whether we have too many or not is certainly difficult to decide," the chief said.

"We were not the ones who opened fire," he said. "We were not the ones who looted and burned."

In the looting and firebombings, some 22 buildings were damaged, but none more than an estimated $2,000. Looters took some 150 guns from a pawnshop, and a pharmacy also was looted.

Democrats Attack GOP Plan To Extend Assembly Recess

HARRISBURG (AP) — A Republican proposal to extend the current legislative recess beyond the Nov. 5 presidential election is drawing sharp criticism from Democratic leaders.

House Minority Leader Herbert Fine, D-Philadelphia, commented Monday: "They (Republicans) don't want the Democratic Party to have a forum between now and the election. They know we would have that forum if the legislative halls were operating."

The Senate's Democratic leader, Ernest P. Kline, of Beaver, added, "If the Republican leaders hold our return until after the election it is because they are afraid of their poor legislative record."

The general assembly recesse in July for the two national conventions, but it was presumed at the time the session would be resumed in mid-September.

However, at the Republican National Convention last week Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, and Majority Whip Albert R. Pechan, R-Armstrong, talked of deferring the session until after the election.

The Senate leader gave two reasons for the possible delay in returning: Whatever had to be done could be accomplished just as easily three weeks after the election as in September, and, secondly, it would be difficult to keep in Harrisburg senators who are up for reelection.

The plan, however, hasn't be agreed upon between the House and Senate GOP leadership.

"Nobody has talked to me about it," said House Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson, R-Allegheny. "But it would be most difficult in a lame duck session to enact new programs of any major scope."

House Speaker Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, said the plan was still in the "talking stage."

Gov. Shafer, an aide said, is not opposed to the proposal per se.

Pittsburgh District Teacher Is Ordered To Be Reinstated

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A school teacher who was fired for having a baby while on a sabbatical leave, has been ordered reinstated.

Mrs. Dorothy I. Hill of nearby Thornburg had been dismissed as a music teacher at the Chartiers Valley School District in August 1967.

Two years ago Mrs. Hill received a sabbatical to earn her master's degree. A child was born to her during her leave of absence. And the school board canceled her sabbatical although she got her degree in the alloted time.

Dr. David H. Kurtzman, the state superintendent of public instruction ruled Mrs. Hill's firing invalid for procedural reasons last August. The school board appealed and Monday, Judge Benjamin Lencher of Allegheny County Court rejected the appeal.

"If the legislature had ever intended that a married school teacher should lose her right to a sabbatical leave even though she has fully complied with its operation, simply because her physician tells her she is with child, it could have expressly declared such intention."

Mrs. Hill said she was "very happy" and said "I expect to return to my career in teaching."

"I only hope my advancement won't be hindered because I had the courage of my convictions," she said.

The school board had contended Mrs. Hil should have taken a materity leave, with no pay, rather than the sabbatical, under which she received half pay.

Philadelphia Officer To Vote For Wallace

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Philadelphia Police Sgt. John Harrington, president of the 100,000-member National Fraternal Order of Police Association, says he plans to vote for George C. Wallace.

In an interview Monday in Dayton, Harrington said the former Alabama governor is the only presidential candidate who has the "guts" to say how he would handle crime in the streets.

The American Descendants Assn. in Brazil, made up of Brazilian families that trace their origin back to the first Confederate immigrants, has built a small museum that displays relics of the Old South.

Israel Shifts 2 Syrian MIG Fighters To Secret Air Base

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel today shifted the two Syrian air force MIG17 jet fighters which landed at an Israeli airfield Monday to a secret air force base.

The planes were hauled away by trucks during the night. Troops had to uproot road signs and other obstacles along the narrow road leading south from the airfield in northern Israel.

A blackout on the interrogation of the pilots was maintained, and 24 hours after the planes touched down, there was still no official explanation for the sudden arrival of the fighters.

Even the Israeli press, which usually agrees to security restrictions, was indignant that no reason had been offered.

There has been speculation Israel would try to exchange the two planes for the Boeing 707 airliner hijacked from the Israeli airline last month and still held in Algeria.

Some newspapers assumed in their editorials that the two Syrian pilots had defected, because of "the rottenness of the Syrian regime, where one officer undermines another."

Calm Returns To District

Police Pack Ammunition And Leave Watts Post

An outbreak of shooting and looting Sunday midnight brought three deaths and 48 injuries, but a police spokesman said the only activity Monday night was an increase in minor fires.

One fire did $35,000 damage to a quilting plant four miles from the disturbance scene in south-central Los Angeles. The fire's origin was undetermined.

Long before sunup, police closed the command post in Alan Locke High School from which 2,000 officers had been directed on constant patrol.

Rumors of trouble whipped through Watts Monday night but that's what they turned out to be—rumors. There was little more than normal night activity.

All three of the dead Sunday were Negro men. Police said at least two were killed by Negro gunfire, and the third may have been shot by police, who reacted quickly and massviely to sniping and looting.

Six of the wounded were policemen. Thirty-six other persons were treated for gun wounds and six for injuries. Two were listed as critical.

There were 35 arrests, 28 of them on felony charges.

The outburst began with rock throwing, followed by sniper gunfire and looting, when police arrested a drunken woman in Will Rogers Park, scene of the third annual Watts Summer Festival.

The festival ironically commemorated the 1965 riot that cost 34 lives and $40 million property damage.

All through the warm Monday and the cool, pleasant night, police maintained their vigil, as Watts remained relatively still.

The night was marked by an occasional trash can fire. Along 103rd Street, dubbed "Charcoal Alley" after the 1965 disorder, knots of youngsters yelled epithets at passing patrol cars, but there was no violence.

Rumors of other fires were unconfirmed.

The demonstrators had mimeographed demands that police pull out and "let blacks do their own patroling and be responsible to a commission elected by the community."

In similar vein, Billy Tidwell, a director of the Watts Summer Festival, called the police mobilization "wholesale unwarranted assault" and accused police of "raiding" the festival headquarters in the park.

He and Tommy Jacquette, another festival leader, said the number of officers in the area should have been reduced immediately.

Police Chief Thomas Reddin told a news conference a "massive response" by police put down the disorder and the area remained "saturated."

"The question of whether we have too many or not is certainly difficult to decide," the chief said.

"We were not the ones who opened fire," he said. "We were not the ones who looted and burned."

In the looting and firebombings, some 22 buildings were damaged, but none more than an estimated $2,000. Looters took some 150 guns from a pawnshop, and a pharmacy also was looted.

Democrats Attack GOP Plan To Extend Assembly Recess

HARRISBURG (AP) — A Republican proposal to extend the current legislative recess beyond the Nov. 5 presidential election is drawing sharp criticism from Democratic leaders.

House Minority Leader Herbert Fine, D-Philadelphia, commented Monday: "They (Republicans) don't want the Democratic Party to have a forum between now and the election. They know we would have that forum if the legislative halls were operating."

The Senate's Democratic leader, Ernest P. Kline, of Beaver, added, "If the Republican leaders hold our return until after the election it is because they are afraid of their poor legislative record."

The general assembly recesse in July for the two national conventions, but it was presumed at the time the session would be resumed in mid-September.

However, at the Republican National Convention last week Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, and Majority Whip Albert R. Pechan, R-Armstrong, talked of deferring the session until after the election.

The Senate leader gave two reasons for the possible delay in returning: Whatever had to be done could be accomplished just as easily three weeks after the election as in September, and, secondly, it would be difficult to keep in Harrisburg senators who are up for reelection.

The plan, however, hasn't be agreed upon between the House and Senate GOP leadership.

"Noboby has talked to me about it," said House Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson, R-Allegheny. "But it would be most difficult in a lame duck session to enact new programs of any major scope."

House Speaker Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, said the plan was still in the "talking stage."

Gov. Shafer, an aide said, is not opposed to the proposal per se.

Pittsburgh District Teacher Is Ordered To Be Reinstated

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A school teacher who was fired for having a baby while on a sabbatical leave, has been ordered reinstated.

Mrs. Dorothy I. Hill of nearby Thornburg had been dismissed as a music teacher at the Chartiers Valley School District in August 1967.

Two years ago Mrs. Hill received a sabbatical to earn her master's degree. A child was born to her during her leave of absence. And the school board canceled her sabbatical although she got her degree in the alloted time.

Dr. David H. Kurtzman, the state superintendent of public instruction ruled Mrs. Hill's firing invalid for procedural reasons last August. The school board appealed and Monday, Judge Benjamin Lencher of Allegheny County Court rejected the appeal.

"If the legislature had ever intended that a married school teacher should lose her right to a sabbatical leave even though she has fully complied with its operation, simply because her physician tells her she is with child, it could have expressly declared such intention."

Mrs. Hill said she was "very happy" and said "I expect to return to my career in teaching."

"I only hope my advancement won't be hindered because I had the courage of my convictions," she said.

The school board had contended Mrs. Hil should have taken a materity leave, with no pay rather than the sabbatical, under which she received half pay.

South Korean Troops Kill Six More Reds

SEOUL (AP) — Six more North Koreans were killed today in two clashes with South Korean troops along the central sector of the demilitarized zone, the defense ministry reported.

There were no South Korean casualties, the ministry said.

Some North Koreans survived the clashes and fled back North, leaving behind five submachine guns, three antitank grenades, three knapsacks and other equipment, the report said.

The late historian Walter Prescott Webb called barbed wire the Industrial Revolution's "greatest contributiion to the economic conquest of the Great Plains."

Musmanno Says He Will Not Run For U.S. Senate

PITTSBURGH (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno has decided he "would have an extraorinary opportunity to better serve the cause of jusice" by declining an invitaion to run for the U.S. Senate.

Musmanno, next in line to succeed John C. Ball as chief justice, announced Monday he would not run.

He had been asked to run for the Senate on the Constitutional Party ticket against incumbent Democraic Sen. Joseph S. Clark, of whom he is a long-time critic, and Republican Congressman Richard Schweiker.

The Constitutional Party candidate, Frank Gaydosh, supposedly would have withdrawn to allow Musmanno the candidacy.

Women, Athletes Worry

Jumping To Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women and professional athletes fret most about their health. Women often go to doctors chiefly to add a little variety to their lives, but a pro athlete's whole career hangs upon his health, and he can worry himself into ulcers over it. Even a hangnail bothers an athlete more than it does an ordinary person. He feels even the slightest imperfection in his body machinery is a potential threat to his earning power.

The average dog in America now eats a more balanced diet than the average teen-ager. He has fewer dental cavities, too.

Wearing too-tight clothing is one of the main causes of melancholy and bad temper among adults. It is hard to show much loving kindness when your feet hurt and a choking collar is shutting down the blood supply to your brain. We'd have a more friendly and hopeful national mood if Congress simply passed a law forcing every man and woman over 40 to wear shoes a half size larger and men to wear shirts a half size bigger at the neck.

With so many people becoming amateur painters in order to express their inner personality, one of the big problems of modern living is what to do with one of their creations when you politely admire it and they insist on presenting it to you. We hung one on our living room wall recently. Our cat took one look, arched its back in panic, scrambled to the top of the bookcase and stayed there until we took the painting down.

This is the season of the year when secretaries are at their grumpiest. They've splurged all their savings on an expensive vacation—and all most of them have to show for it is a peeling nose instead of the wealthy fiance they had hoped for.

No matter how many character faults a wife may have, a husband can ordinarily put up with her if she has learned how to cook a good dish of scrambled eggs. No man could be happy married to a saint if she messed up his breakfast eggs for 40 years.

A fellow never finds out how few really true-blue friends he has in this world until his cat has kittens and he tries to give them away.

There's never been a perfect marriage on earth since apple pie was first wedded to cheese.

Why is everyone in such a rush nowadays? Don't they realize that life is like an all-day lollipop? Only if you savor it slowly will the flavor last until dark.

Registration Of Guns Set For Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The big gun hunt is on. Police acting under a new law expect to locate 400,000—enough to arm more than half the people of San Francisco.

Pressed by Mayor Joseph Alioto after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles June 5, the Board of Supervisors approved the law July 1 by a 7-3 vote.

Its constitutionality was challenged last week by an association of gun clubs. Superior Court Judge Andrew J. Eyman ruled there was no conflict with the federal or state constitution.

Law enforcement officials, the military and people in legitimate firearms sales are exempt from the registration. The fee for others is $1 per weapon. Gun owners don't have to carry their weapons when they register them at any police or fire station.

Any sale, gift or transfer of a weapon must be reported to police. The maximum penalty for violation is six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Before he called for the law, Alioto urged San Franciscans to turn in their weapons voluntarily. Two thousand weapons were turned in, without a question asked.

Hughes Offers $90-Million Deal To Buy Airlines

LAS VEGAS (AP) — An aide says Howard Hughes offered a $90-million deal to buy Air West Inc. because he was dissatisfied with the airline's service to Las Vegas.

Hughes, who was rebuffed by stockholders recently in an attempt to gain control of the American Broadcasting Co., agreed Monday to pay $22 a share for Air West.

Although board chairman Nick Bez said in Seattle, Wash., he and other major stockholders will try to push the deal through, other top executives expressed doubt.

"We don't consider it in the best interests of the stockholders," said G. Robert Henry, company president, at San Francisco.

Henry said he doesn't think the Civil Aeronautics Board would approve such a transaction.

Air West closed Monday on the American Stock Exchange at 19¼. There are 3.7-million shares outstanding.

Wilson Quits Post

Chester Names Officer, Obtains Street Sweeper

Chester Council Monday night appointed Jerry Cornell as a city patrolman, replacing Robert Wilson, resigned, and authroized the purchase of a $3,500 street sweeper.

Wilson submitted his resignation effective Aug. 31, explaining he cannot work his regular job and fill the patrolman post at the current schedule. He said if the police schedule were revised, he would remain.

Councilman indicated the schedule could not be changed.

Cornell was named to fill the patrolman post effective Sept. 1 at a salary of $5,300.

He is the son of Chester police Chief William Cornell and previously had served as a special patrolman.

COUNCIL approved purchase of the street sweeper machine from the Patterson Equipment Co. to be paid in 90 days after delivery. It was announced a sweeping schedule will be posted in The Review.

Clerk Donald Hood announced a contribution of $100 had been received from a business firm toward the purchase of the sweeper. Councilmen expressed appreciation, and urged other businesses to help toward the purchase, citing the anticipated improvement of the city's appearance.

Hood was instructed to write to the Burgettstown Equipment Co. asking for compensation on a defective battery in a roller recently purchased.

Mrs. John Temple, representing a group of residents of Linger Dr., discused the roadway which is private property. Information will be obtained from the solicitor concerning transfer of the right of way to the city.

Robert Kincaid questioned Council about the planned removal of a tree at 1st St., saying the men who were scheduled to assist him were unable to do so. It was agreed bids will be sought on the removal.

IT WAS announced litter barrels have been painted and placed throughout the city. Trash will be hauled Mondays and Thursdays.

Council formally adopted a proposed transportation study submitted by Don Eckert, East Liverpool planning coordinator, which applies to district communities.

Hood was instructed to write to the West Virginia Road Commission advising them of Council's recommendation any span replacing the Chester Bridge be located near the present bridge site.

The Hancock County Board of Education was granted permission to use the City Hall as a polling place for a special election Sept. 10.

Hood reported officials of Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. had advised him the smoke stacks of the pottery have been cleaned to eliminate a soot problem in that part of the city.

Reports of dogs running loose were referred to investigation, and plans were made to have the city dog ordinance comply with the county law.

Stokes Talks With FOP About Police Training

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Carl B. Stokes and other city officials met Monday with representatives of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) to discuss new training methods for policemen.

Safety Director Joseph F. McManamon said afterward he was considering forming a specially trained police unit to deal with armed felons, or other persons considered dangerous.

He said the new unit would be called "protection backup" and men belonging to it would be hand-picked and specially trained.

McManamon said such a unit is in operation in Philadelphia and that he sent three policemen to that city to study the system earlier this month.

The FOP asked City Hall for extra training for police following the July 23 sniper attack on the East Side in which 10 persons, including three policemen, were killed.

Judge Dickson Fines, Jails County Motorist

A New Waterford area driver was fined and jailed by County Judge Barry Dickson at East Palestine Monday for driving while intoxicated. Two other motorists were penalized.

Lloyd L. Campbell, 19, of New Waterford RD 1 was fined $150 and costs and ordered to serve four days in jail by the judge. His license was suspended for 60 days. He also was fined $25 and costs for public intoxication.

Francis Lee Owens of Dairy Ln. was fined $20 and costs for a stop sign violation and Gerald Falkner of Rogers RD 1 was fined $15 and costs for a stop sign violation and $10 and costs for failure to drive on his half of the highway.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has vetoed Congress' bill to curb imports of extra long staple cotton, calling it a "protectionist measure" that would tie his hands in conducting foreign affairs.

Johnson, announcing the veto Monday, said the bill would have deprived him of flexibility in diplomatic and trade relations. He said it would have hurt the textile industry and consumers—and in the long run, U.S. cotton farmers.

"The bill is as unnecessary as it is unwise," Johnson said. "There are far better means to help domestic producers of extra long staple cotton."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has selected two companies to compete for contract proposals on the VSX jet, a new antisubmarine warfare plane to operate from aircraft carriers.

The new plane will fly twice as fast and far as its 500-mile-an-hour predecessor, the 15-year-old S2 Tracker, the Navy said. It said computers aboard will enable four-man crews to rapidly analyze underwater sounds and other electronic information.

Women, Athletes Worry

Jumping To Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women and professional athletes fret most about their health. Women often go to doctors chiefly to add a little variety to their lives, but a pro athlete's whole career hangs upon his health, and he can worry himself into ulcers over it. Even a hangnail bothers an athlete more than it does an ordinary person. He feels even the slightest imperfection in his body machinery is a potential threat to his earning power.

The average dog in America now eats a more balanced diet than the average teen-ager. He has fewer dental cavities, too.

Wearing too-tight clothing is one of the main causes of melancholy and bad temper among adults. It is hard to show much loving kindness when your feet hurt and a choking collar is shutting down the blood supply to your brain. We'd have a more friendly and hopeful national mood if Congress simply passed a law forcing every man and woman over 40 to wear shoes a half size larger and men to wear shirts a half size bigger at the neck.

With so many people becoming amateur painters in order to express their inner personality, one of the big problems of modern living is what to do with one of their creations when you politely admire it and they insist on presenting it to you. We hung one on our living room wall recently. Our cat took one look, arched its back in panic, scrambled to the top of the bookcase and stayed there until we took the painting down.

This is the season of the year when secretaries are at their grumpiest. They've splurged all their savings on an expensive vacation—and all most of them have to show for it is a peeling nose instead of the wealthy fiance they had hoped for.

No matter how many character faults a wife may have, a husband can ordinarily put up with her if she has learned how to cook a good dish of scrambled eggs. No man could be happy married to a saint if she messed up his breakfast eggs for 40 years.

A fellow never finds out how few really true-blue friends he has in this world until his cat has kittens and he tries to give them away.

There's never been a perfect marriage on earth since apple pie was first wedded to cheese.

Why is everyone in such a rush nowadays? Don't they realize that life is like an all-day lollipop? Only if you savor it slowly will the flavor last until dark.

ANN LANDERS

Brains Vs. Bikini Bait

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My sister has entered her 15-year-old daughter in a beauty contest and it's making us all sick.

Bettylou is built like a Swedish 20-year-old, if you get the picture. She gets As from the men teachers and is flunked by the women teachers. I hope you get THAT picture too.

All the emphasis has been on looks and figure and sex appeal and the poor kid is going to end up a professional party girl if something isn't done to open her mother's eyes.

Last night we were at my sister's house for dinner. There were 10 of us present — all family. My sister said, "Honey, why don't you model the bathing suit you're going to wear in the contest? It will be good to practice walking."

In five minutes Bettylou was sashaying through the living room in a bikini that didn't have 50 cents worth of material in it. My brother-in-law, Herman, almost swallowed his dentures, which surprised me because Bessie (his wife) has been referring to him as "my dead battery" for the last 10 years.

I like beauty as well as the next person, but I don't see anything beautiful about a 15-year-old girl showing her behind to the whole world. Please print this letter so my sister can see it. She'll know it's for her and I hope it helps. — DORIS.

Dear Doris: Here's the letter, but don't expect it to change anybody's mind. I feel sorry for any girl whose brains are in her bikini. Obviously Bettylou's mother has encouraged her along these lines and one day the chickens will come home to roost.

Unseen Riches

Dear Ann: Your frankness is refreshing and I admit I enjoy it when you tell a reader off. Now, perhaps it's my turn to get told off, and I hope you will not spare the horses if you think I have it coming.

Teddy and I have been married 11 years. We have no children. Teddy is a good husband and I'm trying my darndest to be a good wife.

His job has brought him to this foreign country which I hope you will not name because I wouldn't want to insult the people. Teddy signed up to stay here 18 months.

Four months have passed and I'm so miserable I could die. I can't speak the language. The climate is wretched. Living conditions are primitive. The food is dreadful. The prices are high. The people are not friendly.

I have considered going back home, getting a job and saving some money. Teddy has begged me to stay. I should tell you he's very attractive and the women here have that look in their eyes when they talk to him at social gatherings.

What should I do? — NEED YOUR WISDOM.

Dear Need: Some people don't know when they've got it good, Lady. You should read the letters I get from wives whose husbands are fighting the war in a neighboring country. They would give their eye teeth to be there with them — in the "wretched" climate, eating the dreadful food and paying those high prices.

Get off your back porch and quit griping. Learn the language and make yourself useful. The orphanages and hospitals over there can use a strong, healthy American girl.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Woman Seeks Governorship In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Virginia Johnson, the first woman to seek the Arkansas governorship, opposes state Rep. Marion H. Crank today in a runoff Democratic primary.

The winner will run in the Nov. 5 election against Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, the state's first Republican governor since Reconstruction.

Mrs. Johnson, 40 of Conway, who is the mother of three sons, is in the first political race of her own but she did campaign for her husband, Jim, two years ago.

Mrs. Johnson's husband lost the governorship election by 50,000 votes to Rockefeller in 1966 and placed second two weeks ago in a four-man race in which Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., won renomination without a runoff.

Johnson is a segregationist and his wife shares his views on racial issues. When asked if she, too, is a segregationist, she replies: "Aren't we all?"

Ground Tests Start Today On Spaceship

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Ground testing begins today on the Apollo spaceship that will fly aboard the first manned Saturn 5 super rocket in January.

The cone-shaped moonship arrived at Cape Kennedy Monday after a cross-country airplane trip from the plant of its prime contractor, North American Rockwell Corp. at Downey, Calif.

Scheduled to ride the spaceship on an earth-orbital mission in January are Air Force Lt. Cols. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart, a civilian astronaut. Their flight, named Apollo 8, will be the first manned mission aboard a 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 rocket, the type of booster which is to hurl three astronauts to the moon late next year.

In late October or early November of this year, three other astronauts—Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham, a civilian—are scheduled to make America's first three-man space flight. They will be launched by a Saturn 1 rocket, however, forerunner of the larger Saturn 5 man-to-the-moon booster.

The Apollo 8 flight plan includes a space walk by Schweickart outside the Apollo capsule and the first manned test of a lunar module, the spacecraft that will ferry two astronauts from an Apollo command ship in lunar orbit to the moon's surface.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Mom Meets Milk 'Mess'

DEAR HELOISE: My family drinks at least four quarts of milk a day and our milkman came by only every other day.

I hated having eight quarts in the refrigerator one day and none the next, so I solved the problem this way.

Heloise

I now buy milk from two different companies.

They leave me milk on alternate days and now I'm never overstocked one day and out the next. Also I can always be sure of delivery every day in case I need extra milk because of special desserts, or the children's company.

It costs no more to have two milkmen make deliveries than it does for one and the milk I have on hand is fresher.

ANNA.

DEAR HELOISE: When baby outgrows the crib, what do you do with those nice crib sheets?

Simply sew two of them end to end and you have sheets for the hard-to-fit 30 inch folding cots or bunks.

GENA L. GEEDY.

DEAR HELOISE: We gals who have small children usually stay up after getting hubby off to work.

But if you are like myself and find it hard to start housework at such an early hour — don't. Take up a hobby that you've always wanted to do and can never find the time for away from your children and household chores.

I like to crochet but with three small angels I've not had time to sit down quietly and find time to do it.

Recently I've started crocheting during that peaceful hour or two before the gang rises.

NORMA J. LIPPKE.

DEAR HELOISE: Have you ever wondered what to do with a can of carbonated beverage when you only use half a can?

GAIL GEORGE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a suggestion that has lightened my ironing basket.

When school was out, I dyed my boys' T-shirts various bright colors for summer fun — which also means no ironing sports shirts for me.

MRS. CAROLE JOLOVICH.

DEAR HELOISE: I had tried without success at three different stores to find some three-inch plastic flower pots in which to plant African violets.

As I was passing the picnic supplies, I saw a package of plastic foam beverage cups just the right size and bought some.

One nice thing about these "flower pots" is that the rims don't make scars on the underside of African violets as the rims of some plastic and unglazed clay pots often do.

MRS. WILLIAM R. BETTS.

DEAR HELOISE: I am a pen pal and collect view cards.

After long experimenting, I found the answer to preserving them to be small plastic sandwich bags.

After inserting the cards, I trim the flap ends of the bags and tape them down. Presto, I can see both sides of the cards and the plastic also keeps them nice and clean. They can be removed and reinserted whenever I wish.

I keep my cards by States in my scrap book and they look very nice this way.

MRS. E. CHAMBERLAIN.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a suggestion for gardeners who wear short sleeves.

Cut the toes off your husband's old socks and pull them on your arms. The elbows fit nicely in the heel. They make a longer gauntlet than your gloves and protects your arms from the sun and bushes.

RAY WILLARD.

Barron Jury Selected

Opening Statements Due In Ex-Governor's Trial

CHARLESTON (AP) — Opening statements from the defense and prosecution were to be made today in the conspiracy trial of former Gov. William Wallace Barron and five other defendants.

A jury of seven women and five men was selected after only about four hours Monday. Seventy - eight prospective jurors were present and 56 were questioned regarding their impartiality and fitness to serve on the panel.

The trial was to convene at 10 a.m. in U.S. District Court for Southern West Virginia. Federal Judge J. Robert Martin will hear the case.

It involves a complex 27-count indictment charging the defendants with conspiring to use interstate facilities to commit bribery involving state government contracts.

Indicted jointly with the 57-year-old Barron were two former state department heads, former State Finance Commisser Burl A. Sawyers, 55, and former State Financ Comemissioner Truman E. Gore, 56.

The other defendants include former Deputy Road Commissioner Vincent Johnkoski, 57; Elkins attorney Bonn Brown, 56, and Clarksburg auto dealer Alfred W. Schroath, 65.

Judge Martin, a U.S. District judge from Greenville, S.C., was appointed to hear the case after the two federal judges for southern West Virginia disqualified themselves.

After their selection, Judge Martin immediately put the panel, and the six alternate jurors chosen, under strict confinement for the duration of the trial. It is expected to last at least three weeks.

The group of jurors and alternates were put in the custody of the U.S. Marshal and his deputies after being sworn in Monday evening. They must stay in a Charleston hotel when they are not in the courtroom for the trial.

"It will be a trying experience for you," Martin said in referring to the trial. "But the court will try to make it as comfortable as possible and with the least possible wear and tear for you."

We were pretty proud when we brought out the standard black desk phone. It was the very last word.

Then the improvements began. About 2,400 of them since 1950.

More often than not, you can't see the changes. They're inside the phones. Like the time we changed the dialing mechanism to make it quieter. Or when we switched from a fabric to an aluminum diaphragm to let you hear better.

We'll bet you didn't even notice when we reduced the weight of the handset to help you avoid caller's cramps.

And you probably didn't realize that our men of science also developed a new varistor (you know what a varistor is, don't you?) to reduce clicking noises in the handset.

Now, all of these don't mean we've ignored the rest of the phone. Remember when we switched from leather "feet" to the non-skidding rubber ones? Or when we changed from a plain metal dial to the pretty see-through plastic one?

The point is, we don't just bring out a new model and then forget it. We're constantly figuring new and better ways to improve your phone service. Improved instruments for you. Better, faster equipment at the telephone company.

But it pays off. We've managed to keep local telephone rates the same since 1959. And long distance rates have been reduced eight times during that period. We just never leave well enough alone.

Brains Vs. Bikini Bait

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My sister has entered her 15-year-old daughter in a beauty contest and it's making us all sick.

Bettylou is built like a Swedish 20-year-old, if you get the picture. She gets As from the men teachers and is flunked by the women teachers. I hope you get THAT picture too.

All the emphasis has been on looks and figure and sex appeal and the poor kid is going to end up a professional party girl if something isn't done to open her mother's eyes.

Last night we were at my sister's house for dinner. There were 10 of us present — all family. My sister said, "Honey, why don't you model the bathing suit you're going to wear in the contest? It will be good to practice walking."

In five minutes Bettylou was sashaying through the living room in a bikini that didn't have 50 cents worth of material in it. My brother-in-law, Herman, almost swallowed his dentures, which surprised me because Bessie (his wife) has been referring to him as "my dead battery" for the last 10 years.

Uruguay Capital Expects More Rioting By Students

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Uruguay's capital appeared certain today to have more bloody student riots as public opposition to President Jorge Pacheco Areco's tough policies steadily increased.

A score of students, policemen and bystanders were in hospitals with bullet wounds or other injuries suffered in daily violence that began last Friday with a police raid on the University of Uruguay.

Censorship-minded officials kept the exact number of casualties secret. Nor would police say how many demonstrators have been arrested, but there have been more than a dozen.

Although the invasion of the traditionally inviolate university campus was the immediate cause of the student demonstrations, they also are protesting conditions which have drastically reduced public backing for the president: Runaway inflation, the rising cost of living, suspension of constitutional guarantees, press censorship, drafting of striking government employes into the armed forces, and alleged police brutality, official mismanagement and corruption in high government circles.

An opinion poll ran 77 per cent in favor of Pacheco when he suspended constitutional guarantees on June 13 and started cracking down on rising student and labor agitation. The same pollsters reported last week only 47 per cent still backing the president, with 45 per cent in favor of a return to full constitutional government. The rest refused to answer.

The long festering crisis was impelled toward a showdown by the kidnaping last week of Ulises Pereira Reverbel, the head of the state telephone and electric power monopoly and the chief advocate among Pacheco's advisers of the hard line the president has taken.

The kidnapers said they were members of the National Liberation Front, a pro-Peking group about which little is known. They held Pereira "hostage" for five days in what many considered was an attempt to touch off rebellion and to prove that the government had lost its hold on the country.

The police struck back with the raid on the university, long considered a hotbed of admirers of Fidel Castro and Mao Tse-tung. They discovered incendiary bombs, bullets and other subversive material on the campus.

Booster Club At Lisbon To Erect Bulletin Board

LISBON — The Booster Club will erect a bulletin board on the Square for the use of David Anderson High School and community organizations.

Ralph Farmer presented the club's proposal to Council Monday night and received official approval. He said the 12-foot-wide display space will provide for six lines of movable five-inch letters.

Manufactured by the Diversa Sales Co. of Cleveland, the board and letters will cost $530. Farmer estimated the masonry foundation will cost approximately $500.

A LOCATION for the sign will be decided later, but Farmer and councilmen agreed the best spot would be the town pump corner opposite the Courthouse where the sign could be seen by traffic on Routes 30, 45 and 164. Farmer said the boosters' first choice would have been to erect the sign at the high school, but no space is availabe there.

Councilmen said they would agree to the boosters' condition that school activities are to have top-line priority on the board. The boosters plan to erect the sign as soon as they can get delivery and arrange for the masonry work.

REED McCLURE of Morris E. Nall & Associates of Cleveland, village engineer, reported the blacktopping of Exchange St. and Pritchard Ave. was completed Friday. He said Exchange residents are to be complimented for installing new sidewalks at their own expense to give the street a completely new appearances. The engineer also said he was "well satisfied" with the work of Dean Rose and Art Whan, excavating contractors who prepared Exchange and set the curbs, and the City Asphalt & Paving Co. of Youngstown.

Mayor Clyde B. Pike told Council he contracted with the Maxim Window Cleaning Co. of Salem to wash all windows in the Village Hall, inside and out, for $13.80.

COUNCIL adopted a consent ordinance giving the Ohio Highway Department permission to grade, drain and resurface E. Lincoln Way Ext. (Route 154) from Jackson St. east to the village limits — 6-100ths of a mile. While the village will not participate financially in the improvement, it does agree to ban parking on Route 154 and to share in future maintenance of the route inside town.

The state will relocate and resurface Route 154 from the Route 11 interchange east of town. In that connection, Council passed a resolution giving the state an easement, in exchange for $100, to build a new entrance to the lift station along Roue 154.

Clerk-Treasurer John Ebert said the American Lafrance Co. has advised it will send a man to inspect the fire truck this week. Firemen three weeks ago told Councli the village truck is so old it should be replaced. Councilmen decided to call in a manufacturer's representative for an examination and report.

Only one bid was received for new hose requested by the fire department, and it was left sealed. The fire committee of Council said it will meet with Center Township trustees to find out how much hose they desire before opening the bid submitted by Ralph Rose of Lisbon, who represents Capt. A. J. Mannweiler of Massillon.

Chief of Police Leon T. Zahrndt told Council he has applied for a demonstration and trial use of the new visual average speed computer and recorder. The device — known as VASCAR — could be installed in the cruiser and would enable police to clock the speed of any vehicle they see whatever its direction of travel, the chief said.

Railroad Drops 23 More Trains In New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — Consider the unhappy lot these days of some New Yorkers: The Long Island Rail Road canceled more trains today while city subway supervisors threatened a slowdown that they said could make the suburbanites' woes seem "minor league."

The LIRR announced Monday night that 32 trains were being dropped from this morning's rush hour schedule—the largest number since the beginning of an alleged slowdown by car repairmen and inspectors eight days ago.

LIRR officials tallied 53 trains canceled Monday or about 25 per cent of the normal service for its 90,000 daily commuters who jammed the aisles of remaining trains or took private cars, buses or subways to get to work.

Meanwhile the 1,000-member Subway Supervisors Association rejected a mediator's recommendations for settling a contract dispute and threatened a slowdown on the city's subway system.

Frank Tedesco, president of the union, declared his men would "follow the book on work rules and carry out job action just like the Long Island Rail Road carmen's slowdown."

In fact the LIRR carmen have repeatedly denied that they were engaged in a slowdown. Officials of Lodge 886, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, claim the aging equipment necessitates increased repair time.

The railroad went back into federal court Monday seeking a permanent injunction barring the alleged slowdown. A temporary injunction last Thursday failed to produce any results.

An LIRR spokesman said about 300 of the line's 1,200 cars were laid up in maintenance yards. Normally there are 60 to 64 cars out of service daily for maintenance, according to the line.

Joseph P. Torre, acting chairman of Lodge 886 has charged there are 100 cars not in use and claimed the LIRR was canceling trains for publicity reasons and as part of a union-busting campaign.

In back of the controversy is a union-company dispute over an LIRR plan to discharge 18 carmen. The question is in arbitration but the commuters meanwhile continue to feel the pinch.

One rider from Valley Stream arrived on a train that brought him direct to Pennsylvania Station rather than to Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, the destination on his ticket. When he refused to pay the conductor 25 cents additional railroad police arrested him and he was charged with "theft of service."

Third Party Candidate On Ohio Ballot Held Slim

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Under a judge's intensive grilling, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's chief counsel conceded Monday that a third party candidate's chances of getting on Ohio's election ballots are virtually nil.

The testimony came in federal court here where the Socialist Labor Party (SLP) asked a three-judge panel to order the name of its candidate for the U.S. Senate to be placed on the November ballots.

The SLP candidate who would oppose Saxbe and Democrat nominee John J. Gilligan providing there is a favorable ruling in his behalf here is Peter M. Kapitz of Akron.

The case could have a far-reaching effect on Ohio's election since a similar suit brought about by third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace said his American Independent Party (AIP) will be heard by the same panel next Monday.

Being challenged are the laws which prohibit write - in voting at Ohio's general elections and which require third party candidates to secure the signatures of 15 per cent of the voters in the last gubernatorial election before their names can be placed on the ballots.

The latter now represents 433,000 valid voter signatures.

Jerry Gordon, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union who is representing the SLP, has charged that the two laws are prohibitive.

"It is a naked, unabashed power grab by the two major parties in Ohio," he told the judges.

U.S. District Judge Joseph Kinneary dwelled heavily on the 15 per cent figure in his questioning of the state's attorneys, led by Charles Lopeman, Saxbe's chief counsel.

Lopeman testified that the law is designed to place on the ballot "those who the majority would vote for and elect to ballot."

"It is your position that the number (of signatures required to place the third party candidate on the ballot) should be related to the likelihood of election," Kinneary suggested.

"Yes," replied Lopeman.

"You mean the candidates should be barred because those (minority) voters should not be allowed to express their vote?" the judge asked.

Lopeman responded by saying that minority voters can write-in their preferences at primary elections, which is permissible under Ohio law.

Kinneary then contended that an independent candidate not attached to a major party would then appear to be either a Republican or a Democrat on a primary write-in because his name would have to be placed on one of the only two ballots available.

Lopeman then conceded Kinneary was right.

"Then there is no way for him to get on the ballot as an independent is there?" Kinneary asked.

"That's correct, your honor," Lopeman replied.

Gordon maintained that the 15 per cent requirement should be set down because it is unrealistic. He also urged the panel to declare unconstitutional the law prohibiting write-ins.

23 Inmates Indicted In Racial Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — A racial attack in the city's jail on Rikers Island has led to the indictment of 23 white inmates on charges of assault and possession of weapons.

The indictments, made public Monday, charged that about 80 whites attacked six Negroes on the night of July 9.

The attack allegedly occurred after the six Negroes moved a picnic table into a recreation area that the white prisoners had designated for whites only, and the Negroes sat down at the table to watch white prisoners play handball.

The six Negroes allegedly were attacked by white prisoners armed with chair legs, bent tin cans, mop handles, chains and knives made from filed-down spoons.

The indictments and the attack were discussed at a joint news conference by Bronx Dist. Atty Isidore Dollinger, his chief assistant, Burton E. Roberts, and City Correction Commissioner George F. McGrath.

Roberts said one of the victims of the attack, a star pitcher for the jail's baseball team, still is "in a comatose state" in the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital. "his chances of recovery are absolutely nil," Roberts said, "and at best the doctors say he will always be a vegetable."

Blockade Seen Stopping Enemy Supplies, Men

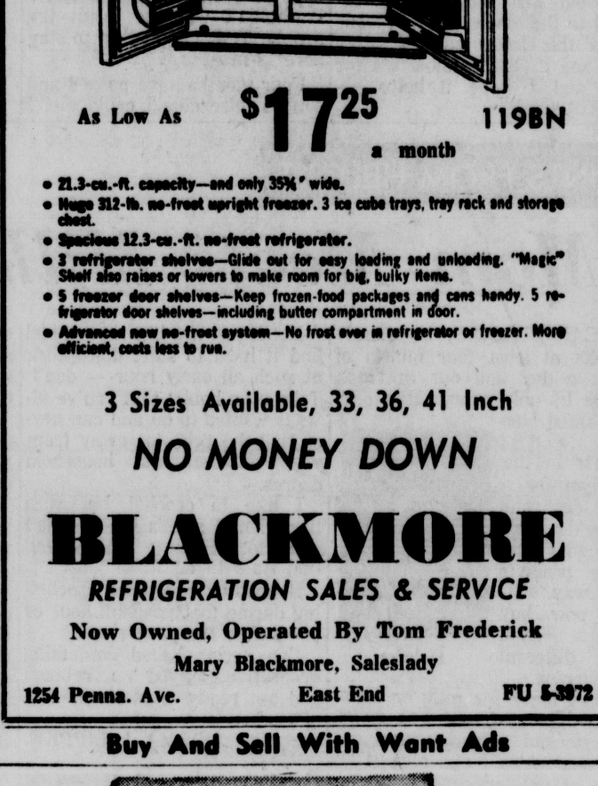

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard and the U.S. Navy have "practically eliminated" the movement of enemy supplies and men by sea into South Vietnam, the chairman of the Coast Guard subcommittee of the U.S. House of Representatives reported today.

"What I have seen out here has convinced me that no enemy supplies are slipping through the coastal blockade now maintained by the United States Coast Guard and Navy," said Rep. Frank M. Clark, D-Pa.

Clark said Operation Market Time, the joint Navy-Coast Guard surveillance of the South Vietnamese coast, has gradually increased in efficiency and strength since it started in July 1965.

Uruguay Capital Expects More Rioting By Students

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Uruguay's capital appeared certain today to have more bloody student riots as public opposition to President Jorge Pacheco Areco's tough policies steadily increased.

A score of students, policemen and bystanders were in hospitals with bullet wounds or other injuries suffered in daily violence that began last Friday with a police raid on the University of Uruguay.

Censorship-minded officials kept the exact number of casualties secret. Nor would police say how many demonstrators have been arrested, but there have been more than a dozen.

The East Liverpool American Legion Post 374 baseball team, which finished the season 25-8, had a better record than eight of the 14 district winners in the state legion tournament.

Euclid, 39-5, had the best mark. Steubenville, which eliminated East Liverpool, was 21-7 going into the tournament, which started yesterday. Ang Vaccaro's team has won the district for at least 10 years in a row. A strong pitching staff is the backbone of the team. Larry Pickford, who starred for Steubenville Big Red, Bill Fisher, who beat East Liverpool High School for Toronto in the sectional playoffs, and Dave Taylor, who blanked Post 374 twice during the season, are the mainstays.

George Knudson and Miller Barber always wear sunglasses, even on the most overcast days (which Saturday was). Knudson, who also has long hair, looks somewhat like a hippie, while Barber, who is short and stocky, resembles a bus driver. Both Knudson and Barber played very well in the Classic.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus each draw about a third of the total fans in "Arnie's Army" and "Jack's Pack," "Lee's Fleas," following Lee Trevino, were present in lesser numbers. The golfers have to put up with some problems with the fans. One small boy, standing near Palmer as he left a hole, said proudly "I touched him".

LATEST GIMMICK for golf courses is colored, artificial sand for traps. It's supposed to be easier to hit out of, but most golfers would as soon see no sand at all. The pros, however, would almost always rather be in sand around the green than in rough.

Tigers Down Indians 6-3, McLain Gets 24th Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Denny McLain and Camilo Pascual work at opposite ends of the street in the American League pitchers' union. But the Washington journeyman can match the Detroit flash in quality of product—if not quantity—on any given night.

McLain scattered five hits, including a pair of homers by Tony Horton, on the way to his 24th triumph of the season as the first-place Tigers trimmed Cleveland 6-3 Monday night.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Cubs Top Cards

Pascual also flipped a five-hitter in hurling the last place Senators past Minnesota 2-0 for a modest—but respectable—11-6 mark.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore shaded Oakland 3-1 in 10 innings, Boston edged Chicago 2-1 and New York topped California 5-2.

The Chicago Cubs ambushed St. Louis 7-3 and Atlanta cuffed Cincinnati 9-2 in the only games on the National League schedule.

McLain, 24-3, took another confident step toward becoming the majors' first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean reached that peak 34 years ago. The hard-throwing right-hander, who should get at least 12 more starts in the final 1½ months of the season, reeled off his sixth straight victory and 15th in his last 16 decisions.

Horton homered with the bases empty in the fourth for the Indians' first hit and cracked a two-run homer in the ninth after the Tigers had given McLain a commanding lead.

The victory, their fourth in a row, kept them seven games up on second place Baltimore.

Norm Cash drove in two Detroit runs with his 18th homer and a sacrifice fly. Jim Northrup poked a two-run single and Mickey Stanley also delivered a pair of tallies with sacrifice flies.

Reliever Jim Landis rescued Ray Culp from a bases-loaded jam in the ninth at Boston after Culp's run-scoring single in the eighth snapped a 1-1 tie. Landis struck out Gerry McNertney and got Woody Held on a game-ending force at third, preserving Culp's ninth victory in 13 decisions.

Blair then walloped a two-run double with two out in the 10th to win it after a walk and Andy Etchebarren's single set the stage.

Jake Gibbs' run-scoring pinch single in the ninth broke a 2-2 knot at Anaheim and Roy White singled across two insurance runs for the Yankees. Mickey Mantle poled his 532nd career homer—a two-run shot in the sixth—for New York.

The Cubs beat the National League leading Cardinals for the sixth time in a row as Billy Williams smacked a two-run homer and Bill Hands brought his pitching record to 14-6 with an eight-hitter. Williams' homer was his 20th of the season and fifth in the last five games.

Felipe Alou keyed a six-run first inning burst with a leadoff double and run-scoring single as the Braves flattened the Reds behind rookie George Stone. Two passed balls by catcher Johnny Bench and a two-base error by left fielder Alex Johnson victimized loser George Culver in the first inning.

McLain Admits Aiming For Magic 30 Level

CLEVELAND (AP) — "All I want to do is win the pennant," said Dennis McClain, but the Detroit Tiger hurler admitted he had 30 wins on his mind too.

"I've been thinking about 30 since 15," McLain said after posting his 24th victory Monday night—an easy 6-3 win over the Cleveland Indians.

"I think it's natural to think about winning 30 games," said McLain, who should get 11 or 12 more starts before the season ends. "But I'm not losing any sleep over it," he added.

The only member of the Tribe who gave McLain trouble was Tony Horton. He hit two home runs, one of them with a mate aboard in the ninth.

Detroit catcher Bill Freehan said he didn't think the pitches Horton hit "were in places where Denny wanted to throw them."

McLain agreed. "They were perfect pitches. I could have hit them out. They were fast balls right down the middle waist high.

"Of course," he added, "there were some great plays behind me, and it doesn't hurt to have six runs behind you."

The Tigers added three more runs in the top of the ninth to make things easy for McLain. Then Horton came through with his second homer, and Manager Mayo Smith made one of his infrequent visits to the mound to talk to his pitching ace.

"I was rushing myself in the ninth," said McLain. "Smith came out to get me to slow down."

"Denny had better stuff than he's had the last few times out," said Smith.

Asked what McLain was doing differently than he did last season, when he was 17-16, Smith said:

Whatever he's doing, McLain makes it sound easy. "The toughest thing I've done this season is cut a record album for Capital," McLain said. "A Dennis McLain Quintet LP is due for release in mid-September, "in time for the World Series," Denny noted.

Winters Candidate For Pitt QB Position

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Former East Liverpool High star Chuck Winters will be among the nearly 80 candidates reporting to Pitt's fall football camp on August 26 at Meadville, Pa.

At East Liverpool Winters lettered in football and twice in basketball. He won all-county and all-district honors in football, and all-district and all-conference mention in basketball, along with the Most Valuable Player award.

He is majoring in liberal arts at Pitt. Chuck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winters of N. Shady Lane Drive.

With the crop of two fine recruiting seasons on the varsity, Pitt coach Dave Hart is expecting a much improved Panther team this fall. A total of 25 lettermen will return to go along with one of the most highly touted Pitt freshman teams in years.

The Panthers will kick off their traditionally tough schedule Sept. 21 at powerful UCLA. Following the battle with the Bruins, Pitt is scheduled for: Sept. 28, West Virginia; Oct. 5, Wm. & Mary; Oct. 12, at Syracuse; Oct. 19, at Navy; Oct. 26, Air Force; Nov. 1, at Miami (Fla.); Nov. 9, at Notre Dame; Nov. 16, Army; and Nov. 23, Penn State.

Oilers Defeat Jets 28-14, Namath May Be Holdout

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets was in the Astrodome but his white football shoes failed to hex the Houston Oilers.

Namath, sidelined with a sore knee, watched the Oilers surge from behind to thrash his teammates 28-14 Monday night in an American Football League exhibition game.

Houston's Pete Beathard passed for three touchdowns before a crowd of 40,354 as the Oilers held the Jets to 161 yards total offense.

The victory was the second for the Oilers, who stopped the Washington Redskins of the National Football League last week. It was the first outing for the Jets.

Namath, scheduled to lead the New York club's passing attack, wore a blue blazer and manned a spotter's telephone on the sidelines as Houston gathered 407 yards total offense, 236 yards in the air.

A New York City television sports announcer reported during the game that Namath may have been using his sore left knee as an excuse for not playing. A Jets club source said Namath was holding out for $3,000 pay per exhibition game, Dick Young of WOR-TV reported.

"The way I had it, he had been promised $3,000 by the former Jets owner," Young said. "I don't know how the promise was made."

Namath said flatly, "I don't know anything about it (the reported agreement). My knee hurts."

The Oilers, meanwhile, ran their total offense to 337 yards, compared to 11 for the Jets through the third quarter.

Beathard capped drives of 52 and 76 yards in the third period with scoring passes of 15 and 66 yards to Charlie Frazier.

Veteran Babe Parilli, working in Namath's place, tossed a 21-yard touchdown pass to Lee White early in the fourth quarter. Parilli had put the Jets out front 7-0 in the first period with a 26-yard toss to George Sauer.

Elsewhere in professional football Monday, veteran end Ron Kramer announced his retirement after 10 years with Detroit and Green Bay of the National League.

The American League San Diego Chargers signed defensive back Jerry Richardson who played last year with the Atlanta Falcons of the NFL.

Satchel Paige Signs With Atlanta Braves

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Satchel Paige, the living legend of professional baseball, has been a pitcher for 40 years — and he's back in the game today.

Paige signed a contract with the Atlanta Braves Monday aimed at providing him with the benefits of baseball's pension plan. He needs 158 days to qualify for the five-year pension, which pays $250 a month at the age of 65.

He will join the Braves' active roster Aug. 23 for the rest of the current season and be retained in some capacity for 1969.

"Satchel is one of the greatest pitchers of all time," said Braves President William Bartholomay, "and baseball would be guilty of negligence should it not assure this legendary figure a place in the pension plan."

Getting to the heart of the matter, Bartholomay added, "more than anything else, it will give many Atlanta fans the chance to see for the first time a living legend."

"I don't know what I can do now," Paige said in a news conference after the signing. "I'll have to get out there and unfold first. If cold weather comes, I'm dead. My blood's not as thick as it used to be. If it's hot I'll be all right. I'm glad to be here and I'll do my best whatever I'm in."

Paige was denied the chance to pitch in the majors until 1948. Prior to that time he pitched on Negro teams in the minor leagues.

He played for parts of six American League seasons with the Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Kansas City A's.

"Ole Satchel," was past 40 when he arrived in the majors —but he still chalked up a 28-31 record.

His last game in the majors was Sept. 25, 1965, when he pitched three scoreless innings for Kansas City against Boston. His earned run average in the majors is 3.29.

"This is my love, baseball," Paige said. "I'm glad to be back to my love."

Paige's age is thought to be 62, but he does not like to talk about it and says nobody knows for sure "except Uncle Sam who don't play around."

Clemente May Retire Next Season

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente, who kept his injured shoulder a secret while he struggled all through the spring, says he will retire before next season if the shoulder doesn't feel any better.

The 34-year-old Clemente has come on very slowly this season after a poor start and now is batting .279. But if he should finish there it would mark his worst average since 1957. Last year he hit .357 and won his fourth National League batting championship.

"I'm playing out the season now with the shoulder hurting," Clemente told baseball writer Charley Feeney of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. "But I won't play with it hurting like this next year."

Clemente said he would like to keep playing baseball, but emphasized he didn't "want to play with the shoulder hurting like it is now."

The rightfielder, who won the National League's Most Valuable Player Award in 1966, injured his shoulder in a fall outside his San Juan, Puerto Rico, home in February.

He has been examined by doctors in Pittsburgh and says there is no assurance the injury will heal over the winter.

Steubenville Wins Legion Opener 3-1

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — At least three teams, and possibly four, will be swept aside following today's second round of double elimination play in the State American Legion Baseball Tournament.

In Monday's play in the 14-team tournament, Findlay squeaked by Piqua 3-2, Cincinnati Bentley defeated Marietta 4-2, Elyria bombed Kent 7-2, Worthington shut out Euclid 2-0, Steubenville dumped Ashtabula 3-1, Ashley squeaked by Lancaster 4 - 3 and Hillsboro clouted Sidney 7-4.

Bob Siekmann fanned 14 batters en route to his 11th victory of the year in Bentley's victory. A three-run homer in the seventh inning by Bruce Cannon helped Elyria pad its score.

Skip Peltier scored on a triple by Jim Shiels, who later came home on an error, in Worthington's game and Jim Millon tripled and scored in the ninth on a bad relay from the outfield for Findlay's win.

Earlier, Bill Fisher gave up only one run en route to his victory with Steubenville; Lancaster scored twice in the ninth but still couldn't overpower Ashley and pitcher Steve Germann fanned 14 batters for Hillsboro.

Boyce Methodist whipped Hookstown 16-3 in the first game of the Church Slow Pitch Softball League playoffs at Dixonville last night.

Don Perkins was the winning pitcher, allowing only nine hits and three unearned runs. Mel Adkins and Clyde Null had four hits each for the winners. Boyce scored 100 runs in the first and coasted to the win. Boyce next plays Friday.

Uncle Oscar Sets Record At Waterford

Royal Scarlet held the record previously, and ironically, Royal Scarlet was the favorite in the first race of the night, also at the five furlong distance over the greensward.

Nothing To War raced the distance in one minute flat, and the resulting 2-2 daily double was worth $48.20.

Football Television Not Paying

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the football boom, television in the United States and Canada finds itself in the position of a team that can't gain, yet dare not kick.

"None of us are making money on football, but none of us would dare give up our contracts. In fact, we're trying for more. It's a funny business. You blow a Saturday or a Sunday afternoon and you blow an entire audience for the weekend."

So why are the television people worried.

"I'm afraid football TV has reached the saturation point—it's overexposed," says an American network official. "Sponsors don't come running anymore—you have to chase them and twist their arm."

Another says, "The three major networks (NBC, CBS, ABC) are committed to around $110 million worth of football television this season. They will be lucky to sell three-fourths of it."

Newell Tops Pleasant Hill In Tourney

Newell, champions of the South Side Athletic Club's junior division tournament, blanked Pleasant Hill of Jefferson County 5-0 in the opening game of the HIHS little league tournament at Hgihlandtown last night.

Mark Fabbro pitched a three-hitter, fanning 14. Poole was the loser. Jack Dunlevy had a double and single to pace Newell and Poole had two hits for the losers.

Tonight HIHS 'A' meets the Medics of East Liverpool, tomorrow night Newell plays Knoxville and Thursday night HIHS 'B' plays Midland. The tourney ends Saturday.

Nicklaus, Palmer Win Golf Match

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden, the gold dust twins of the 1940s, proved they still have their old-time skill, even in defeat by Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

It's true Palmer, 38, and Nicklaus, 28, spotted the veterans 50 yards per hole, the exact difference in their combined ages—116 against 56. But the older men still were playing at just under 6,900 yards—that's long.

The East Liverpool American Legion Post 374 baseball team, which finished the season 25-8, had a better record than eight of the 14 district winners in the state legion tournament.

Euclid, 39-5, had the best mark. Steubenville, which eliminated East Liverpool, was 21-7 going into the tournament, which started yesterday. Ang Vaccaro's team has won the district for at least 10 years in a row. A strong pitching staff is the backbone of the team. Larry Pickford, who starred for Steubenville Big Red, Bill Fisher, who beat East Liverpool High School for Toronto in the sectional playoffs, and Dave Taylor, who blanked Post 374 twice during the season, are the mainstays.

George Knudson and Miller Barber always wear sunglasses, even on the most overcast days (which Saturday was). Knudson, who also has long hair, looks somewhat like a hippie, while Barber, who is short and stocky, resembles a bus driver. Both Knudson and Barber played very well in the Classic.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus each draw about a third of the total fans in "Arnie's Army" and "Jack's Pack." "Lee's Fleas," following Lee Trevino, were present in lesser numbers. The golfers have to put up with some problems with the fans. One small boy, standing near Palmer as he left a hole, said proudly "I touched him".

LATEST GIMMICK for golf courses is colored, artificial sand for traps. It's supposed to be easier to hit out of, but most golfers would as soon see no sand at all. The pros, however, would almost always rather be in sand around the green than in rough.

Tigers Down Indians 6-3, McLain Gets 24th Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Denny McLain and Camilo Pascual work at opposite ends of the street in the American League pitchers' union. But the Washington journeyman can match the Detroit flash in quality of product—if not quantity—on any given night.

McLain scattered five hits, including a pair of homers by Tony Horton, on the way to his 24th triumph of the season as the first-place Tigers trimmed Cleveland 6-3 Monday night.

Pascual also flipped a five-hitter in hurling the last place Senators past Minnesota 2-0 for a modest—but respectable—11-6 mark.

The Chicago Cubs ambushed St. Louis 7-3 and Atlanta cuffed Cincinnati 9-2 in the only games on the National League schedule.

McLain, 24-3, took another confident step toward becoming the majors' first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean reached that peak 34 years ago. The hard-throwing right-hander, who should get at least 12 more starts in the final 1½ months of the season, reeled off his sixth straight victory and 15th in his last 16 decisions.

Horton homered with the bases empty in the fourth for the Indians' first hit and cracked a two-run homer in the ninth after the Tigers had given McLain a commanding lead.

The victory, their fourth in a row, kept them seven games up on second place Baltimore.

Norm Cash drove in two Detroit runs with his 18th homer and a sacrifice fly. Jim Northrup poked a two-run single and Mickey Stanley also delivered a pair of tallies with sacrifice flies.

Reliever Jim Landis rescued Ray Culp from a bases-loaded jam in the ninth at Boston after Culp's run-scoring single in the eighth snapped a 1-1 tie. Landis struck out Gerry McNertney and got Woody Held on a game-ending force at third, preserving Culp's ninth victory in 13 decisions.

Blair then walloped a two-run double with two out in the 10th to win it after a walk and Andy Etchebarren's single set the stage.

Jake Gibbs' run-scoring pinch single in the ninth broke a 2-2 knot at Anaheim and Roy White singled across two insurance runs for the Yankees. Mickey Mantle poled his 532nd career homer—a two-run shot in the sixth—for New York.

The Cubs beat the National League leading Cardinals for the sixth time in a row as Billy Williams smacked a two-run homer and Bill Hands brought his pitching record to 14-6 with an eight-hitter. Williams' homer was his 20th of the season and fifth in the last five games.

Felipe Alou keyed a six-run first inning burst with a leadoff double and run-scoring single as the Braves flattened the Reds behind rookie George Stone. Two passed balls by catcher Johnny Bench and a two-base error by left fielder Alex Johnson victimized loser George Culver in the first inning.

Winters Candidate For Pitt QB Position

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Former East Liverpool High star Chuck Winters will be among the nearly 80 candidates reporting to Pitt's fall football camp on August 26 at Meadville, Pa.

At East Liverpool Winters lettered in football and twice in basketball. He won all-county and all-district honors in football, and all-district and all-conference mention in basketball, along with the Most Valuable Player award.

He is majoring in liberal arts at Pitt. Chuck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winters of N. Shady Lane Drive.

With the crop of two fine recruiting seasons on the varsity, Pitt coach Dave Hart is expecting a much improved Panther team this fall. A total of 25 lettermen will return to go along with one of the most highly touted Pitt freshman teams in years.

The Panthers will kick off their traditionally tough schedule Sept. 21 at powerful UCLA. Following the battle with the Bruins, Pitt is scheduled for: Sept. 28, West Virginia; Oct. 5, Wm. & Mary; Oct. 12, at Syracuse; Oct. 19, at Navy; Oct. 26, Air Force; Nov. 1, at Miami (Fla.); Nov. 9, at Notre Dame; Nov. 16, Army; and Nov. 23, Penn State.

McLain Admits Aiming For Magic 30 Level

CLEVELAND (AP) — "All I want to do is win the pennant," said Dennis McClain, but the Detroit Tiger hurler admitted he had 30 wins on his mind too.

"I've been thinking about 30 since 15," McLain said after posting his 24th victory Monday night—an easy 6-3 win over the Cleveland Indians.

"I think it's natural to think about winning 30 games," said McLain, who should get 11 or 12 more starts before the season ends. "But I'm not losing any sleep over it," he added.

The only member of the Tribe who gave McLain trouble was Tony Horton. He hit two home runs, one of them with a mate aboard in the ninth.

Detroit catcher Bill Freehan said he didn't think the pitches Horton hit "were in places where Denny wanted to throw them."

McLain agreed. "They were perfect pitches. I could have hit them out. They were fast balls right down the middle waist high.

"Of course," he added, "there were some great plays behind me, and it doesn't hurt to have six runs behind you."

The Tigers added three more runs in the top of the ninth to make things easy for McLain. Then Horton came through with his second homer, and Manager Mayo Smith made one of his infrequent visits to the mound to talk to his pitching ace.

"I was rushing myself in the ninth," said McLain. "Smith came out to get me to slow down."

"Denny had better stuff than he's had the last few times out," said Smith.

Asked what McLain was doing differently than he did last season, when he was 17-16, Smith said:

Whatever he's doing, McLain makes it sound easy. "The toughest thing I've done this season is cut a record album for Capital," McLain said. "A Dennis McLain Quintet LP is due for release in mid-September, "in time for the World Series," Denny noted.

Oilers Defeat Jets 28-14, Namath May Be Holdout

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets was in the Astrodome but his white football shoes failed to hex the Houston Oilers.

Namath, sidelined with a sore knee, watched the Oilers surge from behind to thrash his teammates 28-14 Monday night in an American Football League exhibition game.

Houston's Pete Beathard passed for three touchdowns before a crowd of 40,354 as the Oilers held the Jets to 161 yards total offense.

The victory was the second for the Oilers, who stopped the Washington Redskins of the National Football League last week. It was the first outing for the Jets.

Namath, scheduled to lead the New York club's passing attack, wore a blue blazer and manned a spotter's telephone on the sidelines as Houston gathered 407 yards total offense, 236 yards in the air.

A New York City television sports announcer reported during the game that Namath may have been using his sore left knee as an excuse for not playing. A Jets club source said Namath was holding out for $3,000 pay per exhibition game, Dick Young of WOR-TV reported.

Young said Namath reportedly was promised the money earlier by Sonny Weblin, former Jets owner.

"The way I had it, he had been promised $3,000 by the former Jets owner," Young said. "I don't know how the promise was made."

Namath said flatly, "I don't know anything about it (the reported agreement). My knee hurts."

The Oilers, meanwhile, ran their total offense to 337 yards, compared to 11 for the Jets through the third quarter.

Beathard capped drives of 52 and 76 yards in the third period with scoring passes of 15 and 66 yards to Charlie Frazier.

Veteran Babe Parilli, working in Namath's place, tossed a 21-yard touchdown pass to Lee White early in the fourth quarter. Parilli had put the Jets out front 7-0 in the first period with a 26-yard toss to George Sauer.

Elsewhere in professional football Monday, veteran end Ron Kramer announced his retirement after 10 years with Detroit and Green Bay of the National League.

Kramer, placed on waivers by the Lions two weeks ago, will join a steel company in Detroit.

The American League San Diego Chargers signed defensive back Jerry Richardson who played last year with the Atlanta Falcons of the NFL.

Satchel Paige Signs With Atlanta Braves

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Satchel Paige, the living legend of professional baseball, has been a pitcher for 40 years — and he's back in the game today.

Paige signed a contract with the Atlanta Braves Monday aimed at providing him with the benefits of baseball's pension plan. He needs 158 days to qualify for the five-year pension, which pays $250 a month at the age of 65.

He will join the Braves' active roster Aug. 23 for the rest of the current season and be retained in some capacity for 1969.

"Satchel is one of the greatest pitchers of all time," said Braves President William Bartholomay, "and baseball would be guilty of negligence should it not assure this legendary figure a place in the pension plan."

Getting to the heart of the matter, Bartholomay added, "more than anything else, it will give many Atlanta fans the chance to see for the first time a living legend."

"I don't know what I can do now," Paige said in a news conference after the signing. "I'll have to get out there and unfold first. If cold weather comes, I'm dead. My blood's not as thick as it used to be. If it's hot I'll be all right. I'm glad to be here and I'll do my best whatever I'm in."

Paige was denied the chance to pitch in the majors until 1948. Prior to that time he pitched on Negro teams in the minor leagues.

He played for parts of six American League seasons with the Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Kansas City A's.

"Ole Satchel," was past 40 when he arrived in the majors —but he still chalked up a 28-31 record.

His last game in the majors was Sept. 25, 1965, when he pitched three scoreless innings for Kansas City against Boston. His earned run average in the majors is 3.29.

"This is my love, baseball," Paige said. "I'm glad to be back to my love."

Paige's age is thought to be 62, but he does not like to talk about it and says nobody knows for sure "except Uncle Sam who don't play around."

Clemente May Retire Next Season

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente, who kept his injured shoulder a secret while he struggled all through the spring, says he will retire before next season if the shoulder doesn't feel any better.

The 34-year-old Clemente has come on very slowly this season after a poor start and now is batting .279. But if he should finish there it would mark his worst average since 1957. Last year he hit .357 and won his fourth National League batting championship.

"I'm playing out the season now with the shoulder hurting," Clemente told baseball writer Charley Feeney of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. "But I won't play with it hurting like this next year."

Clemente said he would like to keep playing baseball, but emphasized he didn't "want to play with the shoulder hurting like it is now."

The rightfielder, who won the National League's Most Valuable Player Award in 1966, injured his shoulder in a fall outside his San Juan, Puerto Rico, home in February.

He has been examined by doctors in Pittsburgh and says there is no assurance the injury will heal over the winter.

Steubenville Wins Legion Opener 3-1

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — At least three teams, and possibly four, will be swept aside following today's second round of double elimination play in the State American Legion Baseball Tournament.

One of Monday's losers, Piqua, could remain alive in the tournament providing the Miami County team beats Steubenville in an afternoon game today.

In Monday's play in the 14-team tournament, Findlay squeaked by Piqua 3-2, Cincinnati Bentley defeated Marietta 4-2, Elyria bombed Kent 7-2, Worthington shut out Euclid 2-0, Steubenville dumped Ashtabula 3-1, Ashley squeaked by Lancaster 4 - 3 and Hillsboro clouted Sidney 7-4.

Bob Siekmann fanned 14 batters en route to his 11th victory of the year in Bentley's victory. A three-run homer in the seventh inning by Bruce Cannon helped Elyria pad its score.

Skip Peltier scored on a triple by Jim Shiels, who later came home on an error, in Worthington's game and Jim Millon tripled and scored in the ninth on a bad relay from the outfield for Findlay's win.

Earlier, Bill Fisher gave up only one run en route to his victory with Steubenville; Lancaster scored twice in the ninth but still couldn't overpower Ashley and pitcher Steve Germann fanned 14 batters for Hillsboro.

Uncle Oscar Sets Record At Waterford

Under a hustling ride by Jimmy Cuddie, Uncle Oscar was timed in :59 3-5 for the five furlongs over the infield turf course.

Royal Scarlet held the record previously, and ironically, Royal Scarlet was the favorite in the first race of the night, also at the five furlong distance over the greensward.

Nothing To War raced the distance in one minute flat, and the resulting 2-2 daily double was worth $48.20.

Football Television Not Paying

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the football boom, television in the United States and Canada finds itself in the position of a team that can't gain, yet dare not kick.

"All of us are in trouble—we're hurting," one American television executive says.

"None of us are making money on football, but none of us would dare give up our contracts. In fact, we're trying for more. It's a funny business. You blow a Saturday or a Sunday afternoon and you blow an entire audience for the weekend."

"It has never been a big commerical success," says John Mallow director of sales for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

And Murray Chercover, president of CTV, Canada's other network, says the production cost of football is out of proportion "in relation to the advertising efficency."

There's no doubt about fan interest in football being at its peak. Sellout crowds are the rule rather than the exception.

So why are the television people worried.

"I'm afraid football TV has reached the saturation point—it's overexposed," says an American network official. "Sponsors don't come running anymore—you have to chase them and twist their arm."

Another says, "The three major networks (NBC, CBS, ABC) are committed to around $110 million worth of football television this season. They will be lucky to sell three-fourths of it."

Nicklaus, Palmer Win Golf Match

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden, the gold dust twins of the 1940s, proved they still have their old-time skill, even in defeat by Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

Palmer and Nicklaus, the top money-winners in golf history, needed some great shots for a one-hole victory Monday in their best-ball match at Dub's Dread —the longest golf course either of the long-hitters has seen. They played it at close to 7,900 yards.

Nelson, the 56-year-old, silver-haired Texan, still has that effortless swing. McSpaden, 60, remains a skillful competitor.

It's true Palmer, 38, and Nicklaus, 28, spotted the veterans 50 yards per hole, the exact difference in their combined ages—116 against 56. But the older men still were playing at just under 6,900 yards—that's long.

Vikings Hope To Better 1967 Dismal 3-8-3 Log

By CHARLES HALLMAN

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings finally have the new look that Coach Harold "Bud" Grant knew he had to find when he took over the National Football League club from Norm Van Brocklin in 1967.

Until last season, the Vikings looked like the wildest team in professional football, defense was regarded as another country as Fran Tarkenton quarterbacked the Vikings in their sputtering third down and 40 offense.

As expected, 1967 was a disaster for the Minnesota eleven. Aside from their traditional victory over the Green Bay Packers, Vikings' fans had little to cheer about.

Down went Kapp, down went the Vikings. Their season record was 3-8-3, leaving them in the cellar of the Central Division.

For Grant and his 1968 Vikings, a year of aging could bring that new look into focus. Kapp, new to the NFL in 1967, seems more confident.

And he has competition for the No. 1 job from Gary Cuozzo, the long-time back-up quarterback for the Baltimore Colts. Obtained in a winter trade with New Orleans, Cuozzo seems to be edging into a slight lead over Kapp for the job.

His offense looks more versatile since he was able to lure his long-time friend Jerry Burns away from Green Bay to become the Vikings' offensive coach.

His running backs look strong and improved. Considering that Dave Osborn and Bill Brown picked up 1,600 yards in 1967, Grant's recent statement that "yes, I admit we could be almost twice as strong on the ground this year as last," reflects a solid posiion.

Jones seems to be the breakaway threat the Vikings have needed. Combining with Osborn and Brown and reserves Earl Denny and Jim Lindsay, the Vikings appear to have the horses.

Another Minnesota strong point could be the receivers. Last season the Vikings relied heavily on veterans Jim Phillips and Marlin McKeever. They have now gone.

Back though are five-year regular Paul Flatley, Gene Washington, John Beasley and Tom Hall, who returned from New Orleans in an offseason trade. Joining them are former Canadian star Willie Fleming, former Atlanta tight end Billy Martin and a surprising rookie named Mike Donohoe.

The offensive line should be the best the Vikings have ever had.

Center Mick Tinglehoff is a veteran All-Pro. Tackles Grady Alderman and Doug Davis and guards Milt Sunde and Larry Bowie have been NFL regulars for three years or more. Add to them bonus draft pick Ron Yary of Southern California.

At the defensive line positions, Grant has what he terms "five regulars." Ends Carl Eller and Jim Marshall, tackles Gary Larsen and Paul Dickson and Alan Page, who can play either position.

The Vikings will probably carry seven defensive backs, especially if Grant continues to think of fielding five backs in most third down situations.

Former All-Pro Paul Krause, obtained from Washington in the offseason, second-year man Bob Bryant and rookies Charlie West and Mike Freeman all will be given good shots to play regularly.

One way that is being continually suggested is to trade third quarterback Bob Berry for linebacking help.

Berry, considered a top-notch back-up man, is expendable because of the strong showing by rookie Bob Lee of the University of Pacific. Grant can carry only three quarterbacks.

Injury-Plagued Lions Relying On Munson

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — If the Detroit Lions can stay free of the kind of injuries that plagued the club last season, there should be an improvement in this year's record, says Coach Joe Schmidt.

"We should be a better ball club," Schmidt contends, watching newly acquired quarterback Bill Munson take command in a practice session.

Munson, after four years with the Los Angeles Rams, joined Detroit a few weeks ago in a deal which cost the Lions three players and a high draft choice. Schmidt gave up quarterback Milt Plum, halfback Tommy Watkins and flanker Pat Studstill in the trade.

With a won-lost-tied record last year of 5-7-2, the Lions were desperate. They had to do something, and acquisition of a hotshot quarterback seemed to be one of the team's most pressing needs.

But not even a Munson will be able to help the club if it suffers another series of injuries. Unfortunately, the injuries already are piling up.

Defensive end John Baker, a 10-year veteran acquired from Pittsburgh, is out for six weeks with a broken arm sustained in a 13-9 loss to the Buffalo Bills in an exhibition game. Veteran guard John Gordy, who led the player revolt for higher pensions, will miss half a season because of knee surgery.

Nick Eddy, former Notre Dame star who missed his rookie year with a knee operation last fall, aggravated the injury in a scrimmage and is suffering from a slight case of water on the knee. Munson himself missed the first two weeks of training camp with a minor elbow injury.

But Schmidt plans to start the campaign with Munson at quarterback, Eddy and Mel Farr at the running backs and Earl McCullouch, a world class hurdler who gave up the Olympics to play football, replacing Studstill at flanker.

Veteran Jim Gibbons will be at tight end and Gail Cogdill, slowed by injuries in recent years, and Bill Malinchakc will share the split end duties. Bob Kowalkowski, a second year man from Virginia, and Bill Cottrell, another newcomer from Delaware Valley, will replace Gordy at one guard. Chuck Walton, who missed four weeks of training camp with elbow surgery, should be the other starting guard.

Detroit's once impregnable defense is being rebuilt around veteran tackle Alex Karras and Lem Barney. Jerry Rush will be paired at tackle with Karras and Larry Hand is back at one defensive end. Joe Robb, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals and Baker will share the other defensive end job vacated by the retirement of Darris McCord.

Paul Naumoff, Mike Lucci and Wayne Walker are the starting linebackers with Barney and Dick Lebeau the cornerbacks. Tommy Vaughn and gutty Bruce Maher will share the safety slots.

With Studstill, one of the league's top punters gone, the kicking job will probably go to Jerry Depoyster, who set several field goal records at Wyoming last year. Wayne Walker probably will be the reserve placekicker with Garo Yepremian, a soccer style kicking specialist, most likely being cut from the squad.

Governor Smith At Waterford Tonight

Track president James F. Edwards also announced that there will be free admission to the grandstand.

Lanterman, Stambaugh Win Races

Lanterman, who won three other events, captured the stock division 20-lap headliner, while Stambaugh took the 30-lap late model finale.

The stock division feature provided most of the fireworks during the evening. On the third lap Martin Joseph of Austintown, Will Burrows of Windham and Ray Prator of Austintown all crashed into the fence.

Lanterman took over the lead on the sixth lap and held off the challenge of the other drivers. Bob Krauss, second with just a lap to go, went into a spin and had to settle for fifth. In the late model feature Emmitt Reihard of Mineral Ridge raced in front for the first eight laps, but Stambaugh then moved on top and held the lead.

Next Saturday Night's program of racing will be the last before the Canfield Fair.

Cardinal Team Unity Key To Grid Success

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I wouldn't say what I think this team will do, even if I knew," St. Louis football Cardinal Coach Charley Winner admits, "because I'm no fortune teller."

For instance, what about the Negro - white dissention that received such glaring publicity after the 1967 season? Winner and many Cardinal players say the problem was blown out of proportion.

Blown out of proportion or not, the Cardinals institute a player committee and made some chanbbes to solve the problem. Big Red quarterback Jim Hart says the offseason troubles have knitted the team into a closer unit. Unity probably is one of the keys to any Cardinal hopes of moving up from their third place finish in the National Football League's Century Division last year.

Coach Winner agreed that the problems have been solved. "It's been evident to visitors at our training camp. The attitude and hustle has been splendid. It seems as if they (the press) have picked us out and we can't get anybody to believe we're not at each other's throat."

What about Hart himself? Can the second-year quarterback from Southern Illinois University have the consistent year needed to make full use of some of the best offensive machinery in the Eastern Conference? Winner thinks Hart can.

Hart has an outstanding offensive line, called by Winner "one of the best pass protection lines in the league." The running and passing game should be well balanced with the likes of speedy tight end Jackie Smith and second-year man Dave Williams. Behind them is the best crop of young receivers Winner has been with the Cardinals. Tom Busch of Iowa State and Bob Lee of Minnesota seem to have made the biggest impressions.

The runners are knee deep and fighting for jobs. Johnny Roland is mending nicely from knee surgery, Winner says. He's splitting one running back spot with Roy Shivers, and both are backed up by Charlie Bryant. Willis Crenshaw has a toe hold on the fullback spot, with taxisquadder Cid Edwards behind him. Pushing them both are little known Don Fitzgerald of Kent State and first draft choice MacArthur Lane of Utah State.

"If things work out the way we think and hope they will," Winner says, "we will have as good a chance as anybody in our division."

Most of the ifs are in the defense, especially the halfbacks and linebackers. The retirement of middle linebacker Dale Meinert left the Cardinals with only two experienced linebackers—Dave Meggyesy and Larry Stallings. And they'll be sharing the work at one of the outside linebacking spots.

The Cardinals obtained Ernie Clark from Detroit for the other outside spot and Winner said the veteran "has filled in adequately." Adequately is a little weak considering the Cardinals problems at middle linebacker.

Need Seen For Revision Of State Aid To Schools

CHARLESTON (AP) — Educators from four state organizations have agreed that the method of distributing state aid to education needs revising.

The groups explained to the Joint legislative interim committee on Government and Finance and pros and cons of two substitutes for the present state aid system.

One of the proposals would allow a poorer county to receive a higher percentage of state aid than a county more able to contribute to a percentage grant proposal.

The other proposal would be similar to the present method since it would use a fixed formula in computing the amount of state aid to counties. But the proposed idea would include provisions for continuations of state aid beyond the basic foundation allocations based on the formula.

The second part of this supplemented foundation proposal would allow a percentage of aid again based on a county's ability to contribute for other school services not now included in aid computations.

However, the percentage grant idea was considered by most to be impractical because it would require a repeal of the property tax limitation in the State Constitution or an increase in property tax assessments.

The supplemened foundaion sysem was considered simpler and flexible concerning program growth incentives resulting from state aid beyond the basic foundation level.

The representatives attending the hearing were from the West Virginia Association of School Administrators, the West Virginia School Boards Association, the West Virginia Education Association and the State Department of Education.

Saxbe, Gilligan Say Farm Plans Short Of Goals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal government's farm programs, as evaluated by Ohio's two candidates for the U.S. Senate, are falling short of their goals.

Both were speakers Monday at sessions of the 27th annual meeting of Ohio Rural Electric Cooperatives, Inc.

Gilligan, however, said small farms can be preserved if the gap between the costs of farming and farm income can be closed.

Vikings Hope To Better 1967 Dismal 3-8-3 Log

By CHARLES HALLMAN

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings finally have the new look that Coach Harold "Bud" Grant knew he had to find when he took over the National Football League club from Norm Van Brocklin in 1967.

Until last season, the Vikings looked like the wildest team in professional football, defense was regarded as another country as Fran Tarkenton quarterbacked the Vikings in their sputtering third down and 40 offense.

As expected, 1967 was a disaster for the Minnesota eleven. Aside from their traditional victory over the Green Bay Packers, Vikings' fans had little to cheer about.

Replacing Tarkenton at the helm of the Minnesota attack was Joe Kapp, who like the scrambler suffered from blocking breakdowns, but unlike Tarkenton couldn't keep away from the Willie Davises, the Merlin Olsens, the Lamar Lundys.

Down went Kapp, down went the Vikings. Their season record was 3-8-3, leaving them in the cellar of the Central Division.

For Grant and his 1968 Vikings, a year of aging could bring that new look into focus. Kapp, new to the NFL in 1967, seems more confident.

And he has competition for the No. 1 job from Gary Cuozzo, the long-time back-up quarterback for the Baltimore Colts. Obtained in a winter trade with New Orleans, Cuozzo seems to be edging into a slight lead over Kapp for the job.

Grant has other problems in 1968 besides picking a quarterback, some pleasant, some unpleasant.

His offense looks more versatile since he was able to lure his long-time friend Jerry Burns away from Green Bay to become the Vikings' offensive coach.

His running backs look strong and improved. Considering that Dave Osborn and Bill Brown picked up 1,600 yards in 1967, Grant's recent statement that "yes, I admit we could be almost twice as strong on the ground this year as last," reflects a solid posiion.

The main reason for the Vikings' added strength is the vast improvement shown in practice by Clinton Jones, a first-round choice in the 1967 pro draft.

Jones seems to be the breakaway threat the Vikings have needed. Combining with Osborn and Brown and reserves Earl Denny and Jim Lindsay, the Vikings appear to have the horses.

Another Minnesota strong point could be the receivers. Last season the Vikings relied heavily on veterans Jim Phillips and Marlin McKeever. They have now gone.

Back though are five-year regular Paul Flatley, Gene Washington, John Beasley and Tom Hall, who returned from New Orleans in an offseason trade. Joining them are former Canadian star Willie Fleming, former Atlanta tight end Billy Martin and a surprising rookie named Mike Donohoe.

The offensive line should be the best the Vikings have ever had.

Center Mick Tinglehoff is a veteran All-Pro. Tackles Grady Alderman and Doug Davis and guards Milt Sunde and Larry Bowie have been NFL regulars for three years or more. Add to them bonus draft pick Ron Yary of Southern California.

At the defensive line positions, Grant has what he terms "five regulars." Ends Carl Eller and Jim Marshall, tackles Gary Larsen and Paul Dickson and Alan Page, who can play either position.

The Vikings will probably carry seven defensive backs, especially if Grant continues to think of fielding five backs in most third down situations.

Former All-Pro Paul Krause, obtained from Washington in the offseason, second-year man Bob Bryant and rookies Charlie West and Mike Freeman all will be given good shots to play regularly.

One way that is being continually suggested is to trade third quarterback Bob Berry for linebacking help.

Berry, considered a top-notch back-up man, is expendable because of the strong showing by rookie Bob Lee of the University of Pacific. Grant can carry only three quarterbacks.

Injury-Plagued Lions Relying On Munson

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — If the Detroit Lions can stay free of the kind of injuries that plagued the club last season, there should be an improvement in this year's record, says Coach Joe Schmidt.

"We should be a better ball club," Schmidt contends, watching newly acquired quarterback Bill Munson take command in a practice session.

Munson, after four years with the Los Angeles Rams, joined Detroit a few weeks ago in a deal which cost the Lions three players and a high draft choice. Schmidt gave up quarterback Milt Plum, halfback Tommy Watkins and flanker Pat Studstill in the trade.

With a won-lost-tied record last year of 5-7-2, the Lions were desperate. They had to do something, and acquisition of a hotshot quarterback seemed to be one of the team's most pressing needs.

But not even a Munson will be able to help the club if it suffers another series of injuries. Unfortunately, the injuries already are piling up.

Defensive end John Baker, a 10-year veteran acquired from Pittsburgh, is out for six weeks with a broken arm sustained in a 13-9 loss to the Buffalo Bills in an exhibition game. Veteran guard John Gordy, who led the player revolt for higher pensions, will miss half a season because of knee surgery.

Nick Eddy, former Notre Dame star who missed his rookie year with a knee operation last fall, aggravated the injury in a scrimmage and is suffering from a slight case of water on the knee. Munson himself missed the first two weeks of training camp with a minor elbow injury.

But Schmidt plans to start the campaign with Munson at quarterback, Eddy and Mel Farr at the running backs and Earl McCullouch, a world class hurdler who gave up the Olympics to play football, replacing Studstill at flanker.

Veteran Jim Gibbons will be at tight end and Gail Cogdill, slowed by injuries in recent years, and Bill Malinchakc will share the split end duties. Bob Kowalkowski, a second year man from Virginia, and Bill Cottrell, another newcomer from Delaware Valley, will replace Gordy at one guard. Chuck Walton, who missed four weeks of training camp with elbow surgery, should be the other starting guard.

Veterans Charlie Bradshaw and Roger Shoals, out most of last year with a bad knee, are the tackles and reliable Ed Flanagan is back at center.

Detroit's once impregnable defense is being rebuilt around veteran tackle Alex Karras and Lem Barney. Jerry Rush will be paired at tackle with Karras and Larry Hand is back at one defensive end. Joe Robb, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals and Baker will share the other defensive end job vacated by the retirement of Darris McCord.

Paul Naumoff, Mike Lucci and Wayne Walker are the starting linebackers with Barney and Dick Lebeau the cornerbacks. Tommy Vaughn and gutty Bruce Maher will share the safety slots.

With Studstill, one of the league's top punters gone, the kicking job will probably go to Jerry Depoyster, who set several field goal records at Wyoming last year. Wayne Walker probably will be the reserve placekicker with Garo Yepremian, a soccer style kicking specialist, most likely being cut from the squad.

Governor Smith At Waterford Tonight

In honor of the governor's visit the track is presenting the inaugural running of the Governor's Cup.

Track president James F. Edwards also announced that there will be free admission to the grandstand.

Lanterman, Stambaugh Win Races

Lanterman, who won three other events, captured the stock division 20-lap headliner, while Stambaugh took the 30-lap late model finale.

The stock division feature provided most of the fireworks during the evening. On the third lap Martin Joseph of Austintown, Will Burrows of Windham and Ray Prator of Austintown all crashed into the fence.

Lanterman took over the lead on the sixth lap and held off the challenge of the other drivers. Bob Krauss, second with just a lap to go, went into a spin and had to settle for fifth. In the late model feature Emmitt Reihard of Mineral Ridge raced in front for the first eight laps, but Stambaugh then moved on top and held the lead.

Next Saturday Night's program of racing will be the last before the Canfield Fair.

Cardinal Team Unity Key To Grid Success

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I wouldn't say what I think this team will do, even if I knew," St. Louis football Cardinal Coach Charley Winner admits, "because I'm no fortune teller."

And it just might take a fortune teller to put all the ifs and what abouts together and come up with an answer.

For instance, what about the Negro - white dissention that received such glaring publicity after the 1967 season? Winner and many Cardinal players say the problem was blown out of proportion.

Blown out of proportion or not, the Cardinals institute a player committee and made some chanbbes to solve the problem. Big Red quarterback Jim Hart says the offseason troubles have knitted the team into a closer unit. Unity probably is one of the keys to any Cardinal hopes of moving up from their third place finish in the National Football League's Century Division last year.

Coach Winner agreed that the problems have been solved. "It's been evident to visitors at our training camp. The attitude and hustle has been splendid. It seems as if they (the press) have picked us out and we can't get anybody to believe we're not at each other's throat."

What about Hart himself? Can the second-year quarterback from Southern Illinois University have the consistent year needed to make full use of some of the best offensive machinery in the Eastern Conference? Winner thinks Hart can.

Hart has an outstanding offensive line, called by Winner "one of the best pass protection lines in the league." The running and passing game should be well balanced with the likes of speedy tight end Jackie Smith and second-year man Dave Williams. Behind them is the best crop of young receivers Winner has been with the Cardinals. Tom Busch of Iowa State and Bob Lee of Minnesota seem to have made the biggest impressions.

The runners are knee deep and fighting for jobs. Johnny Roland is mending nicely from knee surgery, Winner says. He's splitting one running back spot with Roy Shivers, and both are backed up by Charlie Bryant. Willis Crenshaw has a toe hold on the fullback spot, with taxisquadder Cid Edwards behind him. Pushing them both are little known Don Fitzgerald of Kent State and first draft choice MacArthur Lane of Utah State.

"If things work out the way we think and hope they will," Winner says, "we will have as good a chance as anybody in our division."

Most of the ifs are in the defense, especially the halfbacks and linebackers. The retirement of middle linebacker Dale Meinert left the Cardinals with only two experienced linebackers—Dave Meggyesy and Larry Stallings. And they'll be sharing the work at one of the outside linebacking spots.

The Cardinals obtained Ernie Clark from Detroit for the other outside spot and Winner said the veteran "has filled in adequately." Adequately is a little weak considering the Cardinals problems at middle linebacker.

Need Seen For Revision Of State Aid To Schools

CHARLESTON (AP) — Educators from four state organizations have agreed that the method of distributing state aid to education needs revising.

The groups explained to the Joint legislative interim committee on Government and Finance and pros and cons of two substitutes for the present state aid system.

One of the proposals would allow a poorer county to receive a higher percentage of state aid than a county more able to contribute to a percentage grant proposal.

This idea would permit percentage allocations by the state for county education systems based on each county's ability to contribute its share.

The other proposal would be similar to the present method since it would use a fixed formula in computing the amount of state aid to counties. But the proposed idea would include provisions for continuations of state aid beyond the basic foundation allocations based on the formula.

The second part of this supplemented foundation proposal would allow a percentage of aid again based on a county's ability to contribute for other school services not now included in aid computations.

All of the educators who spoke expressed approval of the incentive rewards built into each suggestion.

However, the percentage grant idea was considered by most to be impractical because it would require a repeal of the property tax limitation in the State Constitution or an increase in property tax assessments.

The supplemened foundaion sysem was considered simpler and flexible concerning program growth incentives resulting from state aid beyond the basic foundation level.

The representatives attending the hearing were from the West Virginia Association of School Administrators, the West Virginia School Boards Association, the West Virginia Education Association and the State Department of Education.

Saxbe, Gilligan Say Farm Plans Short Of Goals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal government's farm programs, as evaluated by Ohio's two candidates for the U.S. Senate, are falling short of their goals.

His Democratic counterpart, John J. Gilligan, says, "The federal government is administering agricultural policy much like the welfare programs; instead of helping people and saving money, they end up doing neither."

Both were speakers Monday at sessions of the 27th annual meeting of Ohio Rural Electric Cooperatives, Inc.

The two, however, expressed different views over the future of small farms.

Saxbe suggested the retirement of small farms. The small farmer, once retrained, could be employed in farm - related industry at home.

Gilligan, however, said small farms can be preserved if the gap between the costs of farming and farm income can be closed.

Personalities In The News

SEAL HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has arrived at his summer estate here for a "quiet rest" that aides said could extend for two weeks.

The New York governor, who lost in his bid to wrest the Republican presidential nomination from Richard M. Nixon last week, planned to boat, swim and relax according to his staff.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew, wife of the Republican vice presidential nominee, and her three daughters have returned home from Los Angeles.

Agnew remained in San Diego, Calif., to plan campaign strategy with the GOP presidential nominee, Richard M. Nixon, and is due back in Maryland later this week.

Two Secret Service agents traveling with the family took Mrs. Agnew, Kimberly and her sisters, Pamela Lee, 25, and Susan, 20, to their residence in Annapolis.

The Agnew's son, Randy, 19, is serving in Vietnam.

HONG KONG (AP) — Sir Donald Hopson, the top British diplomat in Peking who has just been issued a Chinese exit visa after months of waiting, is expected to cross the border into Hong Kong about noon Wednesday and may go into seclusion here until he flies to London.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

On this date in 1521, the Spanish conqueror, Hernando Cortez, captured Mexico City from the Aztec Indians.

On this date:

In 1961, Communist East Germany sealed off the border between East and West Berlin to halt the flow of refugees out of East Germany.

Ten years ago President Dwight D. Eisenhower appeared before an emergency session of the UN Security Council and outlined U.S. proposals for Middle East peace.

Junior Editors Quiz on HUMMINGBIRDS

QUESTION: How fast can a hummingbird's wings beat?

* * *

ANSWER: The hummingbird is a truly tiny creature, no bigger when born than a bumble bee. Yet in spite of this, it is an outstanding flyer. As we look at one darting from blossom to blossom, his wings make only a blur. This is because the hummer's wings can beat as fast as 60 to 70 times a second. It is this speed which gives a humming sound and provides the bird's name. Modern speed photography has enabled us to see what the hummer's wings in flight really look like (lower pictures). These birds can hover motionless in the air and actually fly backward.

In winter, hummingbirds perform a most remarkable flying feat. Working south to Florida, these mighty mites strike out boldly across the Gulf of Mexico. Without rest or food, they fly 500 miles to the Yucatan peninsula. Then they keep on migrating toward their winter homes in various parts of Mexico, Central and South America. The migrations of birds are high among nature's wonders and much remains to be learned about them. You can help by making a list of birds you see next fall and spring in your area. Write the National Audubon Society, 1130 5th Ave., New York, N.Y. to find out how you can help in bird conservation.

(Donna Welke of Walled Lake, Mich., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)
